Indonesia Presses Formal Cancellation Of U.N. Membership

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Indonesia pressed Saturday for formal cancellation of its membership in the United Nations despite a personal appeal by Secretary-General U Thant to President Sukarno for reconsideration.

The Indonesian U.N. delegation, headed by Ambassador Lambertus N. Palar, worked on what amounted to a document of divorce for incompatibility because of the seating of Malaysia on the Security Council.

Flood-Ravaged Areas Lashed By Rain, Snow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Pacific storm blew more snow and rain Saturday into West Coast states laboring at recovery and reconstruction after the billion-dollar Christmas week flood.

Heavy snow whipped by 60 mile-an-hour winds choked many highways in Washington State. The town of Grand Coulee in eastern Washington was cut off when deep drifts stalled two snowplows.

Snow closed in over northern California's Siskiyou Mountains, halting helicopter supply missions for Salmon and Klamath River Canyon residents. Two days of busy shuttle flying, however, had built up supplies in the isolated canyon hamlets.

At Ocean Shores, also on Washington's southwest coast, the old Ship World's Fair hotel ship, Catala, took on water and sank Friday in a shallow lagoon.

The 229-foot Catala, with her engines removed, was used as a sports fishing base.

Fears Indonesia Planning New Attack On Malaysia

LONDON (AP)—Britain rushed a top army commander and troop reinforcements to Southeast Asia Saturday against the possibility of new attacks on Malaysia from Indonesia.

Gen. Sir James Cassels, who takes over soon as chief of the general staff — the nation's top army post — flew to Malaysia to take a first-hand look at the situation there.

At the same time 1,000 paratroopers and infantrymen were being airlifted to beef up the 10,000 troops already taking part in operations to fight off Indonesia's "crush Malaysia" campaign.

Fear of New Indonesian attacks on Malaysia brought Prime Minister Harold Wilson hurry back to London from a weekend rest in the Scilly Isles to confer with military and political advisers.

The crisis took a new turn with the news that Indonesian President Sukarno intends to take his country out of the United Nations in protest against Malaysia's election to the Security Council.

In addition to flying troops to Malaysia Britain took immediate steps to boost her sea and air power in Southeast Asia. Six ships from the Singapore "mothball" reserve are to be taken out to reinforce the 80 vessels of what is now Britain's largest operational single fleet cruising in Southeast Asian waters.

The six new vessels are four minesweepers and two coastal defense boats. Their crews will shortly be flown out from Britain.

Extra squadrons of Javelin all-weather fighters have also been sent to Singapore. Substantial numbers of V-bombers are standing by on British military airfields ready to fly to Singapore.

If ordered abroad, the V-bombers can fly across the U.S. continent, defense sources said. They will be refueled in the air. Officials said they could reach the Far East in 24 hours. Two other squadrons of 1,400 m.p.h. lightning fighters are also standing by at British bases in case they are needed.

Johnson Delivers Message Monday At 9 P.M. EST

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson ended a working holiday at the LBJ Ranch Saturday and flew back to the White House for some final trimming of funds from the budget and words from his State of the Union message.

Johnson is giving over the weekend to cutting 1,000 words from the message he will deliver at 9 p.m. EST Monday in person to Congress and by radio and television to the nation.

The budget goes to Congress later in the month, with no firm indication yet whether it will be above or below the $100-billion mark.

The President spent much of the time from Dec. 20 on tussling with the budget and the message at his ranch in the Texas hill country near Johnson City. Much of his conferring on these prime topics was done with one or more of 25 officials who flew back and forth from Washington.

Johnson came back tanned by the Texas sun and in amiable spirits. Chatting with reporters before he switched from a small to a big jet at Austin, Tex., the President said the State of the Union message started with 6,000 words, he fed 2,000 to the birds, and still has 1,000 more words to cut.

He may not reach his goal of 3,000 words, but he said he was giving over the rest of Saturday, all of Sunday and most of Monday to the attempt.

Dallman Funeral Will Be Monday In Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Funeral services for V. Y. Dallman, editor emeritus of the Illinois State Register, will be Monday at 11 a.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Springfield.

Dallman, 91, was fatally injured Thursday night in an automobile accident on U.S. 66 south of Springfield.

Gov. Otto Kerner paid tribute to him Friday as "one of journalism's great crusaders."

"V. Y. Dallman was one of journalism's great crusaders, one of his political party's grand old men and altogether an extraordinary citizen who used his many talents on behalf of his fellow men," the Illinois governor said in a statement.

"The people of Illinois and Springfield have lost one of their finest sons."

"Mrs. Kerner and I, who knew and admired for many years his warmth, generosity and delightful sense of humor, have lost a wonderful friend."

Dallman, who was editor of the State Register for 35 years before retiring in 1960, was widely known in the state as "Mr. Democrat."

Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery, Springfield.

BODIES OF SOUTH VIETNAMESE Rangers who died in the battle for Binh Gia lie on field after bitter fight with Viet Cong rebels. The Viet Cong were pushed out of the town, 40 miles south of Saigon, but fighting continued into a fifth day as a fresh battalion of Vietnamese soldiers were airlifted into the area. Four Americans were killed in the battle. (UPI Cablephoto)

Cong Withdraws From Binh Gia, Vietnamese Suffer Heavy Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The Viet Cong quietly gave up the bloodied fields about Binh Gia to government troops, medics and burial details Saturday. The Red fighters, who acted like regulars, had scored heavily in the war's most sustained single action.

Vietnamese patrols searching the jungles around the Roman Catholic refugee village 40 miles east of Saigon found the Communist force — estimated as high as 1,600 men — had at least temporarily withdrawn into hiding.

The Viet Cong stripped the bodies of the government troops of boots, rifles and cartridges. They made off with scores of captured weapons.

Nearly 500 government troops and 18 Americans were casualties of the fighting that began after the Communists occupied Binh Gia Monday for the fourth time this year. The U.S. losses were five dead, two captured and 11 wounded.

Sixty-seven Vietnamese marines were killed in one phase of the fight — two successive Viet Cong attacks on detachments sent in to recover the bodies of four U.S. helicopter crewmen, who were shot down in flames Wednesday night, and some Vietnamese casualties in vicinity of the helicopter wreckage.

Shallow graves beside the helicopter yielded the bodies of the Americans, previously identified by the Pentagon as WO Stephen E. Morgan, San Jose, Calif., WO Roy G. Azbill, Hayward, Calif., Sgt. Franklin D. Porter, Columbiana, Ohio, and Pfc. Theodore A. Winowitch, Pittsburgh.

U.S. advisers believed the enemy also suffered severely. Some estimated the dead at more than 100. But the Communists ordinarily carry away their casualties and less than 10 Viet Cong bodies were found.

While the roll of Americans killed in combat in Viet Nam rose to 246, a military spokesman in Saigon disclosed the buildup of manpower from the United States continues.

He announced there are now 23,000 U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam, about 1,000 more than at the start of December.

Still complicating the political picture was the two-week deadlock between the United States and the leaders of South Viet Nam's armed forces about military intervention in the civilian government as exemplified in the purge of the High National Council.

And there were indications Saigon Buddhists intend to resume their drive to topple Premier Tran Van Huong.

WINDSOR TO GO TO NEW YORK NEXT WEEK

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, recovering from serious abdominal surgery, is expected to leave Houston for New York about the middle of next week.

John Allen, general manager of the Warwick Hotel, where the Duke and his Duchess have been living since the former British monarch's release from Methodist Hospital, said Saturday he understood the royal couple would check out next Wednesday or Thursday.

A hospital spokesman said his doctor was making a day to day check, and that the Duke continues to make satisfactory progress.

Illinois Assembly Convenes Jan. 6 After Court Action On Technicality

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The 1965 General Assembly will convene Wednesday after the Illinois Supreme Court and the Electoral Board blow away a technical cloud.

The court Saturday ordered DuPage County Circuit Court to make sure that DuPage County state representative votes are in the hands of the Electoral Board by Tuesday noon.

The votes have been held up by an injunction based on the charge that votes in five DuPage precincts exceeded registrations.

Electoral Board members are alerted to stand by for a Tuesday meeting.

Board certification is required to seat the 177 members in the nation's first at-large representative contest.

No one has disputed an unofficial tally. It shows Democrats winning a 118-59 majority in the House. Republicans hold a 33-25 majority in the Senate.

Dominated by veteran lawmakers, but with the most newcomers ever, the assembly will try to clean up old problems of reapportionment, revenue, education and reform.

Gov. Otto Kerner will make his recommendations Jan. 27. He and other Democratic state officers re-elected Nov. 3 will be sworn in Jan. 11.

So will a newly elected Democrat, Paul Powell of Vienna, who becomes secretary of state. A former House speaker, Powell is expected to exert a potent influence on the Assembly.

Growth in education and other state activities are seen as likely to push Kerner to raise budget recommendations close to $5 billion. Two years ago he asked for nearly $4 billion.

One of the most complex legislative maneuvers will confront the 79 newcomers elected to the House. They will help draw districts from which lawmakers will be elected until the 1970 census.

A new element in lawmaking and redistricting will be the "shadow house." Republican House members of 1963 who failed to win re-election are being rallied by former Speaker John Lewis, R-Marshall, to advise on new district boundaries.

Disagreements about the 1963 General Assembly reapportionment plan for the House led to the at-large election.

Since then, federal courts have ruled that all representative government bodies must have lawmakers chosen from districts with nearly equal populations without regard to area.

Because of the ruling, Illinois Senate districts will be redrawn.

The federal ruling is expected to result also in legislation remaking rules of representation in counties and other local governments.

Revenue reform, especially on property taxes, has been declared by both parties for years to be highly desirable.

U.S. Military Shows No Unusual Concern

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro displayed Saturday Soviet "land-to-land missiles" and swift new reconnaissance jet planes which have been added to the array of Soviet military hardware which has made his army the strongest in Latin America.

The slender, gray rockets, about 24 feet long, rolled through Havana's streets in the military parade marking the sixth anniversary of the Castro revolution.

The new jets, of an unannounced type, screamed low overhead as announcers said they were capable of guarding the Cuban coasts day and night.

A Cuban television announcer said the missiles had been acquired by Cuba "through the brotherly help of the Soviet Union."

But at the same time, Castro declared "We do not need to ask anybody to loan us their brains, their heroism or their revolutionary colors."

In his annual speech, Castro said Cuba will keep its political independence, regardless of the price, even to the point of subsidizing without economic aid from any country.

But he defended the attention to military power because "We are the only Socialist country in this hemisphere and for that reason we need to be armed."

There was no official explanation of the nature of the missiles, nor whether they were nuclear equipped.

One of the Soviet Union's known ground-to-ground missiles which can carry nuclear or high explosive warheads could be similar to the devices displayed here Saturday.

(Military men in Washington showed no unusual concern about the Cuban weapons. Some sources pointed out the missiles appeared to be tactical, artillery-type rockets with a range

Reduce Charges Against Mormon In Shooting Case

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Charges were reduced Saturday against a young Californian in a New Year's Eve shooting involving two Mormon missionaries.

Raymond Saunders, 20, Vale, Ore., was reported still in critical condition at St. Anthony Hospital with a bullet wound in his lungs.

Richard Whitaker, 21, Campbell, Calif., faced new charges of carrying a concealed weapon and discharging a firearm in the city. A more serious charge of shooting with intent to kill was dismissed after an investigation.

Police said Saunders confessed Whitaker's statement that the shooting, outside a downtown diner, was accidental. Whitaker said he thought the 22-caliber revolver contained only blanks when he fired it in the New Year's Eve celebration.

Queen Of Siam Tops Poll Of World's Best Dressed Women For 1964

NEW YORK (AP)—The Queen of Siam, who interchanges gleefully wears Oriental silks and French couture, tops the annual poll of the world's best-dressed women for 1964.

Queen Sirikit, of what is now Thailand, is sometimes called the Jackie Kennedy of Asia.

A secret committee of fashion editors which counted ballots distributed among 2,000 fashion authorities, socialites and celebrities, announced the list of a baker's dozen Saturday.

Of the 13 women on the annual "12 best dressed list," seven are from three American families. The Kennedy family is the most generously represented.

After being at the top of the list for two years, Mrs. John F. Kennedy was omitted last year in deference to her mourning period. But she is in second place on the current list, with two relatives and a close friend tying up the next three spots.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, is third; her Palm Beach neighbor, Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, is fourth, and her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill of New York and London, is fifth.

Said the committee of Mrs. Joseph Kennedy and the president's widow: "Their decision not to wear deep mourning over a long period reflected the same sense of discipline and contemporary dignity which the late president always displayed."

Although actresses without social backgrounds have made the famed list in the past, the two this year are both from New York's Social Register. They are Mrs. Stanley Rumbough Jr., (Dina Merrill) in sixth place, and Mrs. Wyatt Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt) seventh. Following in eighth place is a second member of the Vanderbilt clan, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Newcomers to the elite list along with Mrs. Joseph Kennedy are:

Ninth, Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., wife of the U.S. ambassador to the Philippines.

Tenth, Mrs. Paul Mellon, wife of the industrialist and art collector of Upperville, Va., and London.

Eleventh, Mrs. Alfred Bloomington, wife of the California founder of the Diners' Club, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The twelfth spot is shared by two fashionable Ford sisters, Anne and Charlotte, of New York and Detroit, daughters of Henry Ford II and his former wife, Mrs. McDonnell Ford.

far short of that needed to fire at the U.S. mainland.)

On Cuba's economic problems, Castro accused "imperialists" of speculating with sugar prices and said he had "misinformed the enemy" with respect to Cuba's sugar production in the face of price fluctuations.

Castro said: "Last year there was an increase in cane production, and this year everybody knows there is much cane, but they don't know the amount."

"Fortunately we will announce our sugar production. I am sure we will give a tremendous slap in the mouth to our enemies."

Cuba's 1964 sugar cane harvest has been estimated as low as 3.5 million tons, compared with a peak of seven million tons in some previous years.

King Calls For New Negro Drive For Registration

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. sounded an urgent call Saturday for a new Negro voter registration drive throughout Alabama and promised a "march on the ballot boxes by the thousands" unless the campaign is successful.

Speaking to a crowd that filled the Brown Chapel A.M.E. church and spilled out into the street, the Nobel Peace Prize winner declared:

"Today marks the beginning of a determined, organized, mobilized campaign to get the right to vote everywhere in Alabama."

"If we are refused, we will appeal to Gov. (George) Wallace. If he refuses to listen, we will appeal to the legislature. If they don't listen, we will march by the thousands on the ballot boxes."

King said Negroes must be willing "to go to jail by the thousands" if need be to gain the right to vote.

"When we get the right to vote," King said, "we will send to the State House not men who will stand in the doorways of universities to keep Negroes out, but men who will uphold the cause of justice. And we will send to Congress men who will sign not a manifesto for segregation but a manifesto for justice."

His statement about standing in the doorway was a reference to Wallace's unsuccessful attempt to keep two Negroes out of the University of Alabama in the summer of 1963.

King charged public officials in Alabama with a "deliberate attempt to freeze voter registration at the present undemocratic levels." He said they are doing this by allowing Negroes to register only on the first and third Mondays of each month.

City police, under public safety director Wilton Baker, kept the street in front of the church clear of all white persons except those with specific authority, such as newsmen. The security measure was taken to prevent the possibility of an incident.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie/Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For Alan Hale it looks as if the third time makes the charm.

The hefty, extroverted actor, who fitted neatly into his father's footsteps as a jolly, capable character actor, has been at bat three times in the television game. The first venture was "Biff Baker."

That lasted merely a season. Later came "Casey Jones" for Screen Gems. "There was a lapse of a year between the pilot and the series," Alan recalls. "I saw the producer once during that time — and it was the only time I ever saw him."

Again, a season's run.

Alan joined Bob Denver, Jim Backus, Tina Louise and other castaways on "Gilligan's Island," and this time the ratings indicate he has picked a winner. "I think people enjoy it," said Alan. "They seem to appreciate a show that has no problems — just fun." And he's not at all displeased that some folks have been comparing him and Bob Denver to Laurel and Hardy.

It has been a half-dozen years since Alan dropped the junior off his billing. He did so not to escape the image of his father, famed as the jolly sidekick of Errol Flynn in numerous adventure films. Unlike some second-generation actors, young Alan doesn't fight the comparison with his father.

"I always remember what my grandfather told me one day," he recalled. "We were out in the backyard of our Hollywood house and he said, 'What's that?' I asked him, 'What's that?' 'That — behind you,' he said. I said, 'Oh, that's my shadow,' and he replied, 'Don't ever lose it.' In other words: find my own place in the sun."

The quest was not always simple. In the postwar years when movie business was slack, Alan took a number of outside jobs, including a four-year stretch selling vacuum cleaners. "That was the best education an actor could possibly have," he commented. "Every front porch was like opening night."

As We Begin
Our 99th Year...

A New Year dawns. For Elliott State Bank it will be the 99th year of service to the people of Morgan County.

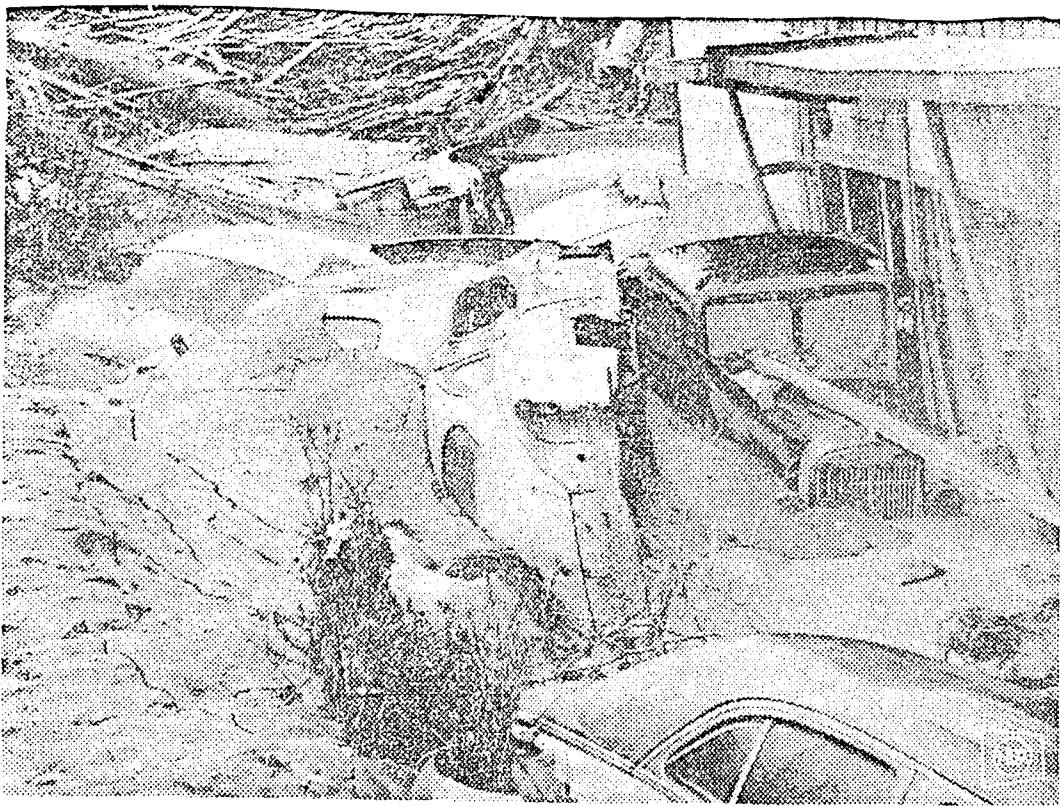

The year 1964 saw Elliott State Bank establish new records in virtually all phases of operation. Capital, resources, deposits, and loan volume were at an all-time high. The bank was privileged to serve more people than in any previous year.

Of significance to all who SAVE with Elliott State Bank, interest rates on both long-term and short-term savings were increased on July 1. The Elliott Certificates of Deposit offer an excellent return on surplus funds, while the 3½% daily interest on Passbook Savings gives individuals the opportunity to combine high earnings with complete safety and optimum availability.

The community took a significant stride forward during the year with the newly organized Jacksonville Area Industrial Corporation, formed to attract desirable new industrial plants to this community. Elliott State Bank gave active support to this project, viewing it as a well-directed effort to strengthen the partnership between agriculture, industry and Jacksonville's educational and welfare institutions, thus assuring strength, diversity and balance for our economy.

We enter our ninety-ninth year and stand on the threshold of a century of service. We approach our ninety-ninth year as we did our first — as a challenge to our leadership to foster the growth and prosperity of our area; with a pledge to our neighbors to find new ways to serve them better with complete banking facilities; with a promise to the people of Elliott State Bank to provide for them a good place to work and opportunities for advancement and fulfillment.

F. Osborne Elliott,
President
Elliott State Bank

Allen's accusation

Ethan Allen once was accused of treason, being charged with collaborating with the commander of the British forces in Canada to make Vermont a British province, but his guilt or innocence never was proved.

The private took his orders seriously. It was a moonlight night and about 10 p.m. the guard saw a skunk meandering toward the colonel's tent. The guard ordered the animated perfumery to halt, but it just kept limping along.

The number of offences against the person, such as stabbing, shooting, etc., has so greatly increased lately, that it is proposed to alter the law for these crimes, considerably increasing the penalty.

Germans In The War

Many Illinois regiments had at least one company made up entirely of Germans. One was Co. D, 106th Illinois Infantry, recruited at Mt. Pulaski, Logan county. In my youth I knew many of them.

The regiment didn't accomplish much. After participating in the siege of Vicksburg — with nobody hurt — the outfit went to Arkansas and there literally sat out the rest of the war.

The most notable incident happened in 1864 during the regiment's last dress parade. The boys were against the entire idea, in fact they hadn't had dress parade for so many months that they didn't really know how to do it. But the new colonel ordered them out.

He was Henry Yates, Jr., of Berlin, youngest brother of Gov. Richard Yates.

As the boys were trudging around, some of them trying to be real parade soldiers, a shot was fired. The bullet just missed the canteen of Col. Yates' saddle, but it didn't miss him. Surgeon Bettelheim of Mt. Pulaski dug out the slug and when Col. Yates healed up enough to sit down he resigned his commission, got on the train and went home.

It was never determined who fired the shot.

Not Much Action

The record of the 106th was well put by Private Johnny Er-lenbusch. When Co. D was discharged at Camp Butler in May, 1865, a big delegation was waiting to greet them at the Mt. Pulaski depot. One boy asked Johnny how many rebels he shot and Johnny answered, "I nicks so zehr much as a goose gesooten."

Another 100% German company was Co. G of the 14th Illinois Infantry. When the call came in May, 1861, for each of the 10 counties in the 6th Congressional district to send a company to rendezvous at the Morgan county fairgrounds, Sangamon county had a company ready. The Springfield Turnverein had been drilling for several years under Louis C. Reiner. To belong to the company was a distinct honor and membership was limited to 200.

Now the boys enjoyed the precision drill under the command of Capt. Reiner, but when the war came some of them changed their minds. But nearly a hundred of them came with him to Jacksonville. Here 20 of them changed their minds again and went home. Capt. Reiner had no trouble getting eight Germans from Jacksonville to fill his company.

A Stable Unit

Co. G does show the adhesion and stability of most German companies. Capt. Reiner served throughout the entire war, was never replaced and never promoted. This is in striking contrast to those infantry companies who had all the way from three, five or even seven captains during the war.

Fritz Fetzler was the first lieutenant and Jacob Rippstein was second lieutenant. Keeping the roll of Co. G was a most easy chore; everybody stayed in his place.

The health of Co. G was far superior to that of the other 14th Illinois companies. Throughout the war the men carried their soup kettles with them and whenever they stayed at one place for a week, or a month, or maybe two months, soup was on all the time. They got the bones unwanted by any other group, and the new dehydrated vegetables issued by the Quartermaster, and had soup, soup, soup, while everybody else was living on a continuous diet of beans and sow-belly.

The superior diet of the company paid off big dividends. Only five men died of disease and only six were discharged for disability caused by disease. This is truly a remarkable record.

Co. G was by all odds the best trained company in the 14th Illinois. When operating as a unit they spoke only German. They had their own band to while away the long and dreary hours of camp life. They could shoot. They respected authority and obeyed orders.

And did they obey orders! The Call Of Duty

In Missouri in September, 1861, it came time for Co. G to furnish the guard. Lt. Rippstein put a trustworthy private just back of the tent occupied by the colonel, John M. Palmer of Carlinville. He ordered the private to permit nobody, nothing to pass.

The private took his orders seriously. It was a moonlight night and about 10 p.m. the guard saw a skunk meandering toward the colonel's tent. The guard ordered the animated perfumery to halt, but it just kept limping along.

From the Jacksonville Journal: IMPORTANT NOTICE—From the 1st Jan. forward we shall strike from our list the names of all subscribers who have not paid in advance. We simply cannot give credit when we must pay cash for white paper, which now costs us three cents a sheet.

BOY DROWNS — We learn that a small boy, a son of Mrs. Crawley, formerly of Jacksonville, was drowned some days ago in the Illinois River at Naples. It seems a party of small boys were out in a skiff, and being unable to manage it, during a gale which sprang up, the son of Mrs. Crawley jumped out, and before assistance could reach him was drowned.

A cannon was brought to the river bank and fired over the water, which raised the body to within a few inches of the surface; it sank again, however, before it could be recovered.

FAT STOCK SHIPMENTS — Forty car loads of hogs were shipped from this place during the week past. Shippers are offering $10.50 for good lots, and some have been bought this week for $11. No movement of cattle except for future shipment. Nominal rate $6.50 to $7.

The grain market remains as last week. The views of sellers and shippers not meeting, there is very little being done in grain.

NEGRO FESTIVAL — The colored people of this city held a festival at their church in the "African" quarter on Monday night, in celebration of the anniversary of Lincoln's Abolition proclamation. We learn that stirring and eloquent speeches were made, and the occasion passed off with great eclat. A blooming ebony damsel dressed in pure white and ornamented with red, white and blue, with a national flag in her hand, represented the goddess of liberty. The crowd was enthusiastic for Massa Linkum.

Handling Of Feeders May Determine Price Spread, Says Kirtley

Prices for fed cattle during 1965 should average near the 1964 level, reports M. B. Kirtley, University of Illinois livestock marketing specialist.

If an orderly flow of lighter weight cattle continues the price should average slightly higher than in 1964. If cattle are backed up and the numbers of heavy cattle increase prices could drop below the 1964 level, Kirtley says.

Prospects for profits from cattle feeding will be better than in 1964 because of lower cost of feeder cattle, Kirtley believes. The average price of choice steers in Chicago in 1964 was about $23.25 compared with the 1963 average of $23.36.

During 1964 slaughter of cattle was high throughout the year, averaging about 12 percent above the 1963 level. The slaughter of cows was about 20 percent higher than in 1963. Even with this high rate of slaughter, cattle numbers on hand may be up slightly on January 1, 1965, Kirtley says.

M. B. KIRTLEY

Prices for choice cattle in Chicago averaged nearly $25 a hundred during the last six months in 1964 compared with an average of $21.50 in the first six months. Factors contributing to stronger prices were reduced in market weight of cattle, higher consumer incomes, which strengthened demand, and the government beef purchase program, which helped by reducing supplies available for market use.

Supplies of competing meats during the last half of 1964 were slightly lower and imports were about 25 percent lower than in 1963. The heavier slaughter of cows partly accounts for reduced imports. And improved beef prices in the United Kingdom made it a more profitable market than the U. S., Kirtley adds.

Plenty Of Beef

Slaughter for 1965 will continue at a high level, with a slight increase over 1964 if numbers are stabilized. Increasing consumer income can be expected with an increase in demand for beef, Kirtley believes. Beef imports will probably not be higher than they were in 1964. Supplies of competing meat will probably be reduced slightly because of a lower quantity of pork.

Government purchases of meat are not scheduled to be continued through 1965, Kirtley says, causing the possible loss of this strengthening factor. But the problems caused by heavy cattle last year and the poor returns many feeders received from these cattle can be expected to cause marketing of lighter weight cattle in 1965.

Prices for fed cattle will probably show a wider spread between quality grades than was true early in 1964, Kirtley reports. Although there is a continuing limited demand for heavy-weight, highly finished cattle, the strong demand is for cattle of medium weight and modern finish.

Near End Of Cycle?

If cattle numbers are increased this year, this will be the seventh year of increase in the cycle, Kirtley points out. In two previous cycles, build-up continued for six years. To achieve a leveling off, a slight increase in slaughter for 1965 over 1964 will have to be maintained. With the heavy stock of cattle on ranges and pastures, a severe drought would produce sharp liquidation, which might bring disastrous prices, Kirtley says.

The low price of fed cattle in 1964 was reached in May, when choice steers in Chicago averaged $20.52 a hundred. The year's high was reached in September, when choice steers averaged $26.05 in the same market.

A price spread of about $5 from the low month to the high month has been typical of choice cattle prices for several years, Kirtley says. The high and low months for the year, however, have not shown any regular pattern. For this reason the USDA reports of cattle on feed specialist in grain marketing should be carefully studied in making marketing plans, he emphasizes.

Changes In Business

Recent widespread development of commercial feedlots has separated the cattle industry into two distinct areas of calf production and feedlot operations, Kirtley points out. With the large amount of feedlot capacity and heavy supplies of feed a large amount of cattle feeding will continue. While prices of calves have been low enough to discourage some cattlemen, they have not been low enough yet to force large liquidation of cow herds.

Demand for beef is strong, Kirtley concludes. The market has been further expanded. This might be the time when adjustments could be made in cattle numbers without the sharp liquidation and downturn in prices that has occurred in previous cycles. With a stabilization or slight downturn in cattle numbers, market demand could soon expand to the point that market supplies of beef would be more nearly in balance with consumer demand.

Conference Guests Of IAA

About 350 Illinois Future Farmers of America leaders from 70 counties attended the annual Farm Bureau-FFA conference Dec. 28-30 on the campus of Illinois State University, Normal.

"Education is the soundest weapon to use in protecting tomorrow's freedom," Kenneth L. Cheatham, Illinois Agricultural association director of young people's activities, said during the conference.

"Young people today must extend and broaden their knowledge beyond what can be grasped from personal experiences. They must maintain a knowledge of the fundamental beliefs that have guided our nation as a world leader. Knowing what is in the Declaration of Independence, the United States Constitution, and the Bill of Rights is not old fashioned."

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

CATTLE FUTURES SERVE 2 PURPOSES

Farmers have been much interested in the new beef cattle futures market at Chicago. We will try to answer some of their questions.

The first fact to be understood is that the beef cattle futures market is not a new way of buying and selling cattle. Packers will buy cattle the same as before. And farmers will continue to sell wherever and to whomever they wish, and for any price that they can get.

The futures market may serve two purposes: (1) It may provide a new indicator of prices that are expected several months hence. (2) It may provide a way for cattle feeders to hedge — shift risk of price change to someone else.

A new indicator of coming prices. The first day of trading in beef cattle futures was Monday, November 30. Sales for the day totaled 191 contracts. Each contract is for 25,000 pounds of Choice steers, which is equivalent to 20 or 25 head of cattle. Thus the first day's business represented around 4,000 or 4,500 cattle. At the end of the day, prices were as follows:

April	$23.67
June	24.00
August	24.40
October	24.75

There is no guarantee that these prices will prevail during the months indicated. But some intelligent people were willing to put up money to wager that prices would be close to these levels. Of course, some were betting on one side of the market and some on the other side.

All buyers and sellers of futures contracts — whether for cattle, corn or cocoa — are entitled to receive or deliver the commodities specified in their contracts. This provision insures that prices of futures contracts and of cash or spot commodities will come close together at or before the delivery date. This characteristic of futures markets makes them useful for hedging operations. Hedging consists of buying or selling commodity futures to offset a risk of loss from price changes.

Common examples of hedging are provided by grain dealers, flour millers and soybean processors. When they buy grain, they usually sell an equivalent amount of futures. If the price of grain falls, the loss on the grain on hand is offset by profits made on the futures.

Cattle feeder may hedge. A August 1. Suppose that the price of cattle is down then and that the futures market for the price of choice steers is hedging. Suppose that he has around $20. The farmer will 100 yearling steers that he expects to finish for market around August 1. He can hedge by selling four contracts of August futures, say at $24. His commission costs on the futures contracts will be $36 for each contract, or $144 for four in addition, he will have to put up

Simerl Sees Slightly Higher Pork Prices, Also Higher Costs

Hog prices will probably average slightly higher in 1965 than in 1964, but part of the price advance may be offset by higher feed costs, reports a University of Illinois outlook and policy extension specialist.

L. H. Simerl believes that mild optimism in the hog outlook is justified primarily because hog prices disappointed many farmers in 1964. Most forecasters expected market receipts to shrink and prices to rise above 1963 levels.

Commercial slaughter did average about 2 percent below 1963 levels during most of the year, Simerl says. Average slaughter weights, however, were 3 percent greater, making the pork output 1 percent more than in 1963.

Prices were higher than those in 1963 in March, April and September, but the average price for the first 10 months was down 30 cents.

L. H. SIMERL

There is an important seasonal pattern in hog prices, Simerl points out. The pattern for the past five years shows steady prices from October through May. Prices rose about $2 in June and July, followed by a downward trend to October.

In view of this pattern, steady to slightly higher prices are likely for the first five months of 1965, Simerl believes. A strong summer rise should follow, and fall prices may top those of recent weeks.

Higher Cost Feed Securities and higher prices for corn will discourage hog production in some areas, Simerl reports. The summer drought cut corn production on the corn-belt borders. The price support level is up 3 cents a bushel. The minimum sale price for CCC corn for general use a deposit of $500 for each contract, or $2,000 in all.

Now, let's jump to next. Last year Wayne Tomhave, route 3, Jacksonville, represented Morgan county.

"This year we hope to have four or more from Morgan at the conference," John Chambers, Farm Bureau organization director, said last week. "The Farm Bureau is prepared to contribute substantially toward expenses and I hope anyone interested will call me right away."

will be 5 to 8 cents higher than in 1964.

Protein feeds may be slightly cheaper than in 1964 because better prices for soybean oil will stimulate crushing of beans. Recent quotations for soybean meal were $6 lower than those of a year earlier.

Plenty Of Meat

Supplies of most other meats will be at least as large as in 1964, offering stiff competition for pork, Simerl says. Consumer buying power is strong and rising, however, and pork now seems to be holding its place in consumer preference. This is an improvement over past years, when pork was losing public favor.

One hazard in forecasting hog markets now, Simerl concludes, is that recent farmer reports to the USDA and subsequent actions have not followed the usual pattern. Beginning a year ago, farmers reported that they were reducing hog production, but there has been no corresponding reduction in markets.

Chambers Seeks Young People For Conference

This year's, the 9th, Farm Bureau Young Peoples Conference will be held Jan. 13-16 at the Pere Marquette hotel in Peoria.

Melt Ice With Fertilizer

Dr. H. H. Nau, Senior Agronomist, Cyanamid Corporation suggests that hazardous ice and snow can be melted with fertilizers without damaging valuable plants, trees or grass near walks and driveways.

Urea fertilizer is ideal for this use. It costs more than rock salt but has several advantages among which are: (1) Relatively non-corrosive to metals. (2) Non-conductor of electricity. (3) Run-off will fertilize grass and plants. (4) Leaves little residue to be tracked in buildings or homes. (5) Can be handled without special equipment. (6) Is available at most farm supply stores.

FROM THE CORN CRIB:

The husband of a woman who recently learned to drive was astounded upon returning home and seeing their car in the living room.

"How in the world did you land our car in here?"

"Nothing to it," she replied with a trace of smugness. "When I got to the kitchen, I simply made a left turn!"

Across the Fields and Furrows is brought to you daily at 12:25 P.M. on W L D S 1180 on your dial by the people at Elliott State Bank.

Grain Futures School Begins Friday, Jan. 8

Farm Adviser George Trull announced last week that 19 Morgan county farmers have signed up for the three-session school on the use of grain futures in the farming business, which will be taught here this month by L. F. Stice, Extension specialist in grain marketing.

"The advance enrollment has been gratifying," Trull said. "However, we can handle an enrollment of 30 or so, which I hope will be achieved."

Topics to be studied include:

The economic function of futures trading, pricing and risk shifting.

Cash and futures price relationship.

The use of futures to insure maximum income.

The meetings will begin at 1 p.m. on successive Fridays, Jan. 8-15-22, and will close at 3 p.m. There is no charge, but all who enroll are encouraged to attend all meetings.

Dale Neppel, center from East Grand Forks, Minn., and Bill Wernecke, quarterback from Virginia, Minn., are North Dakota's football co-captains this season.

ATTENTION ALL FARMERS AND INTERESTED PERSONS

The Morgan County NFO is offering a public service to rural America. An educational seminar on bargaining in agriculture will be held at Sacred Heart Parish Hall in Franklin, Ill. on January 4, 1965. The seminar will start at 10:00 a.m. and conclude at 4:00 p.m.

A trained representative of the national office of NFO at Corning, Iowa will conduct the seminar. This is not just a discussion on NFO. It is a detailed study on "Necessary Steps To Be Taken for Successful Bargaining in Agriculture."

This study is based on information from agricultural colleges and universities, United States Department of Agriculture and NFO research committees.

Some of the subjects this seminar will cover include: past history of marketing, present conditions in agriculture, strong and weak points in the present marketing structure, new economic factors in marketing, reasons for failure of past proposed solutions, REQUIREMENTS FOR A SUCCESSFUL MODERN DAY MARKETING STRUCTURE (one highlight of the seminar) and many other points of interest.

Then there will be a discussion of NFO objectives and goals, reasons for holding actions, and success to date including contracts with processors. There will be a period for questions and answers.

Take time to discuss what you need most in your business — A Way To Receive Fair Prices At The Market Place For Your Products.

You will not miss these six hours — attend this educational and business discussion for agriculture.

County NFO Seminar Monday

Leonard W. Kramp of Alexander, president of the Morgan County NFO (National Farmers Organization) announces a one-day seminar to be held Monday, Jan. 4, at Sacred Heart parish hall, Franklin. The theme will be "Necessary Steps to be Taken for Successful Bargaining in Agriculture."

All farmers and other interested persons are invited to attend, Kramp emphasized.

"This is an important meeting for farmers," Kramp said, "because the seminar is a broad study on methods which must be used in order for farmers to receive fair prices at the market place."

Lunch will be served.

One hairdo, two versions takes a woman through the busy holidays with few worries. Simple daytime style (left) is smooth with bangs brushed gently along the side of the face to blend with the front-flip curl at the jaw-line. For evening, hairstylist Erik of Breck lifts his design at the sides (right) and fastens the hair at the back of the crown with hairpins. He combs the bangs to the side and up. This forms a swirl toward the top of the head. Pin a jeweled clip or holiday trimming on one side for a festive touch.

AEC Fumes Like Split Atom Over Charges

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is fuming almost as hotly as a split atom over suggestions that it is administratively disorganized, plagued by discord, becoming downgraded in government stature—and running out of things to do.

Vigorously denying any such ideas, the AEC also says that:

Things are going so well under its present five-member set-up that there's no movement afoot within the commission—as there was a couple of years ago—to have the agency changed to a single-administrator type of operation.

Finally, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the agency, says he knows of no basis for suggestions that the AEC feels subservient to the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee—that is, suggestions that the AEC feels compelled to take unusual steps in carrying out its legal responsibilities to the committee.

Seaborg, a Nobel Prize winner who is top man in the nation's $3-billion-a-year, 7,300-employee atomic enterprise, was particularly forceful during an interview in challenging any idea that the AEC is headed over the hill into obsolescence, largely because it has built up a stockpile of nuclear weapons and so much fissionable materials that production cut-backs already have been ordered.

"The AEC's functions have been more diverse," he said, "and that speaks to the point: Is the AEC obsolete?"

"Never have we had a more diverse operation in the whole history of the commission."

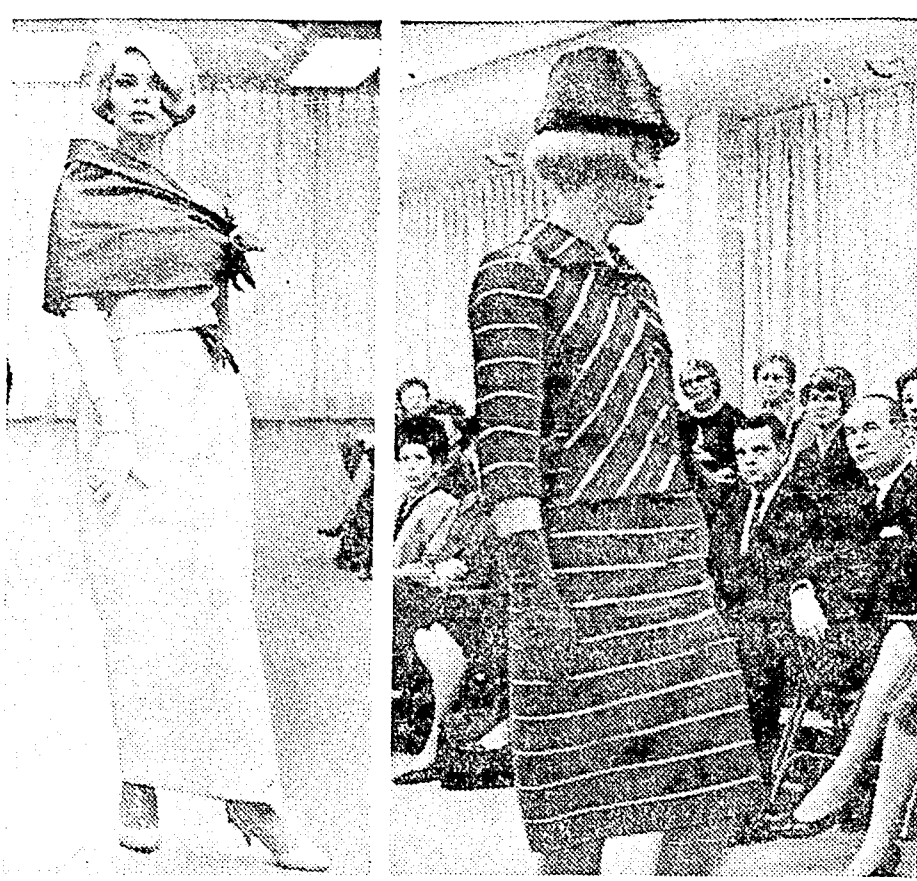

And the AEC as a whole, contends that it has a host of big jobs still on its calendar—ranging from the quest to take the salt out of seawater to developing "a wide variety of nuclear weapons."

On other fronts there were these findings:

1. Moves within the commission itself for reorganization into a single administrator outfit appear to have occurred largely in 1962. And there is no available evidence of any strong moves anywhere today for such a change.

2. Several members of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee said the committee exerts no undue power over the AEC. And another—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., a former chairman of the committee—said any discord in the AEC's relationships with its own staff prevailed only in a two-year period ending in mid-1962, and "I don't believe it is true ranges of east-central Africa."

3. State Department officials say the AEC is increasingly "coming into the mainstream" of international policy matters, "to help further the over-all policy of the U.S. government."

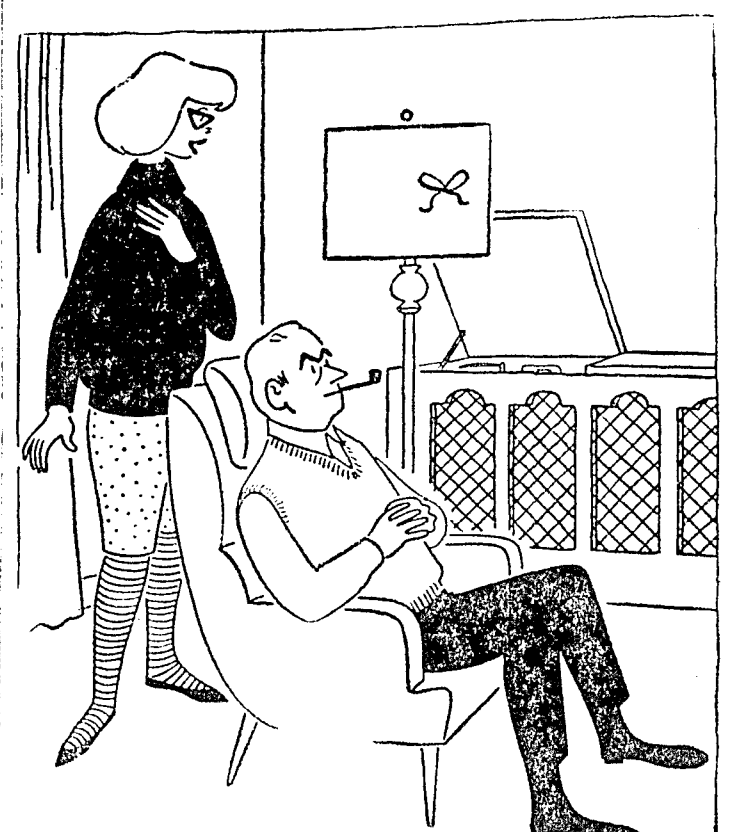

Typical of the feminine elegance of fashion's mood for spring are these designs from the Pattullo-Jo Copeland collection. Gardenia silk and worsted evening gown (left) is trimmed with mocha satin and has its own mocha satin stole. The two-piece ensemble (center) is in navy, red and white French tie silk. Cocktail dress (right) is a floral print on imported black silk-satin. Styles like these are sure to put any gal in a party mood.

Rocket Rally Allows 53-49 Triumph Over Payson

Routt Takes 2nd Upset In Last Three

By AL KOCH

The hustling Routt Rockets rallied from behind Saturday night, to hand previously unbeaten Payson a 53-49 upset in a non-conference game at Formax Hall.

Battling a decided height deficit and a cold-shooting first half, which netted the Rockets a cool 24.7 field goal average, Routt found their success in a running offensive attack, combined with an effective, second half, full court press.

Routt battled through a second quarter which saw the game tied four times and left them down by six tallies at the halftime mark, to come back late in the final period for their third win in nine starts.

The upset came less than a week after Routt surprised previously undefeated New Berlin in the first round of the Waverly Holiday tournament, with a 44-42, reversal.

Fail To Jell

The Payson attack failed to jell throughout the entire ball game, while an alert Routt defense plagued the Indian offense by stealing the ball for the duration of the contest.

The Payson five held Routt scoreless until, with 5:35 reading on the clock, Jerry McGinnis pumped in a pointer from the charity stripe.

Guard Leo Carroll hit from outside throughout the first quarter, netting his team 10 tallies in that frame, to hold the Rocket score to within two points of the 15-13 first frame Payson reading.

The second quarter opened as Routt's standout forward McGinnis, swished both of his free throws through on a one and one situation, to tie the game up at 15 points apiece.

The Rockets then went ahead to garner a three tallies, 20-17 margin over their Indian foes, with 5:57 remaining before the halftime break.

Payson At Halftime

Payson, behind three buckets by guard Paul Peter, walked off the hardwoods with a 28-22 halftime reading.

Routt began third period activity with an effective full court press, highlighted by the heads-up ball playing of forward J. D. Zeller, center Bill Templin, and guard Phil Schickedanz, while Carroll and McGinnis repeatedly turned the Indian mistakes into Rocket buckets.

The Routt five left the third quarter down by only four points, 40-36.

The fourth quarter told the tale, as Templin and J. D. Zeller, boosted the score to a 45-40 reading for Routt with three minutes gone in the frame.

Peter hit the first fourth quarter for the Indians, on a side jump shot, with 5:00 left in the contest.

J. D. Zeller hit two free throws, one at 3:03 and the other at 2:50, to give the Rockets a 49-44 edge over the mistake ridden Indians.

Increase Margin

Carroll then drove the length of the court on a stolen ball, to increase the Rocket lead to 52-44.

Forward Wally Stotts, and his brother Ken Stotts then scored the remaining 5 tallies for the Payson effort, the last at 3:37, ties scored for the West when while Carroll pumped in a single toss from the free throw line, to give the Routt bucket-men the upset victory, with 1:51 seconds to go.

Carroll paced the Rockets with 18 tallies, while McGinnis backed him up with 15 pointers.

In the percentage department, Routt connected 19 of 50 at-tempting plays put the ball on the templs for a 38.2 field goal average, and hit 20 of their 38 attempted free throws for a 52.6 average.

Payson took home a 53.7 reading in the field goal category, by making 20 of 23 attempts, while they shot an even 50% of their charity tosses, completing 9 of their 18 attempts.

For the losing, Indians, who now embrace an 8-2 season record, it was Paul Peter who led the team scoring ranks, netting 22 points for the evening.

West's Comeback Wins Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's Craig Morton hit teammate Jack Schraub with a six-yard scoring pass with 1 minute, 4 seconds remaining and gave the West an 11-7 comeback victory over the East Saturday in the 40th East-West Shrine football game.

The margin of victory actually was represented by two safeties scored for the West when while Carroll pumped in a single toss from the free throw line, to give the Routt bucket-men the upset victory, with 1:51 seconds to go.

Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Jacksonville's Crimsons demonstrated to the many fans at the Carbondale tourney that they are a State power in basketball again. Jacksonville won Sectional titles in 1952 and 1953 and this should be a year for another Jacksonville team to play in the Super-sectional at Macomb's new Western Illinois University gymnasium.

Quincy, Galesburg and Canton are favored to advance to the Macomb Sectional along with Jacksonville. Jacksonville gave Carbondale high its worst defeat of the year in the title game Wednesday night. Carbondale is consolidated this year with Attucks high of Carbondale for the first time and gained several fine athletes.

Canton plays at Jacksonville January 8 and that game should be a thriller as the Canton team won the consolation prize at the Carbondale tourney and lost to a tough Eisenhower (Decatur) five by 47-43 in the opening round of play.

Canton beat Olney, Metropolis and Evanston to take home the consolation trophy. Canton's fine Coach Rod Richardson took Bradley high to the State tourney last March and he formerly coached at Chandler, Cuba, Effingham and Bradley before moving to Canton last September.

Pekin Wins Meet

Pontiac high won the first trophy in 34 years in coping the second place consolation prize of their own meet. Pekin's defending State champs won the tourney by beating Lockport but a stubborn Granite City five of Andy Sullivan's coaching proved tough for the Chinks in the third game.

Peoria Central won the Kan-kakee high Holiday tourney with a 51-43 win over Arlington Heights. Jim LeMaster scored 23 points for the Lions and stretched their season mark to 7-1. Their only loss was a 59-47 defeat at the hands of state champion Pekin opening night.

Pekin's hawking defense and great shooting carried them to an easy 71-44 win over previously unbeaten Lockport to take the title in Pontiac's tourney. Pekin lost to Bloom (Chicago Heights) 61-60 for the championship last year. It was the 12th straight win for Pekin this season in winning over Lockport as once again the Chinks completely overwhelmed its opposition.

The 71 points enabled the Pekin club to set a four-game tournament record of 334 and brilliant All-State guard Dave Golden led all scorers with 24 points to set a tournament four-game record of 111 points. The previous high was 109 set by East Peoria's Dick Quinn in 1957. A standing-room only crowd of 3500 saw the Chinks of Dawdy Hawkins hitting at better than a 50 per cent clip.

To Leave Centralia

Joliet Central will be a new team in the Centralia Holiday tourney next season replacing Herrin. Former coach coach at Canton high, Frank Whitman, fell on the ice Monday and broke his leg. He is a patient at Canton's Graham hospital and the father of Canton's 6-1 forward Doug Whitman. Athletic Director William Metzger will retire at the end of the 1964-65 school term at Canton high school.

Tommy Thomas of Johnston City high is being sought by college scouts this season. The quick moving senior guard 6-3 Thomas is playing his fourth year of varsity basketball and he made enough of an impression in the first three seasons to be selected on a pre-season prep All-America second team by a national publication. He scored 1042 points during his first three years in high school.

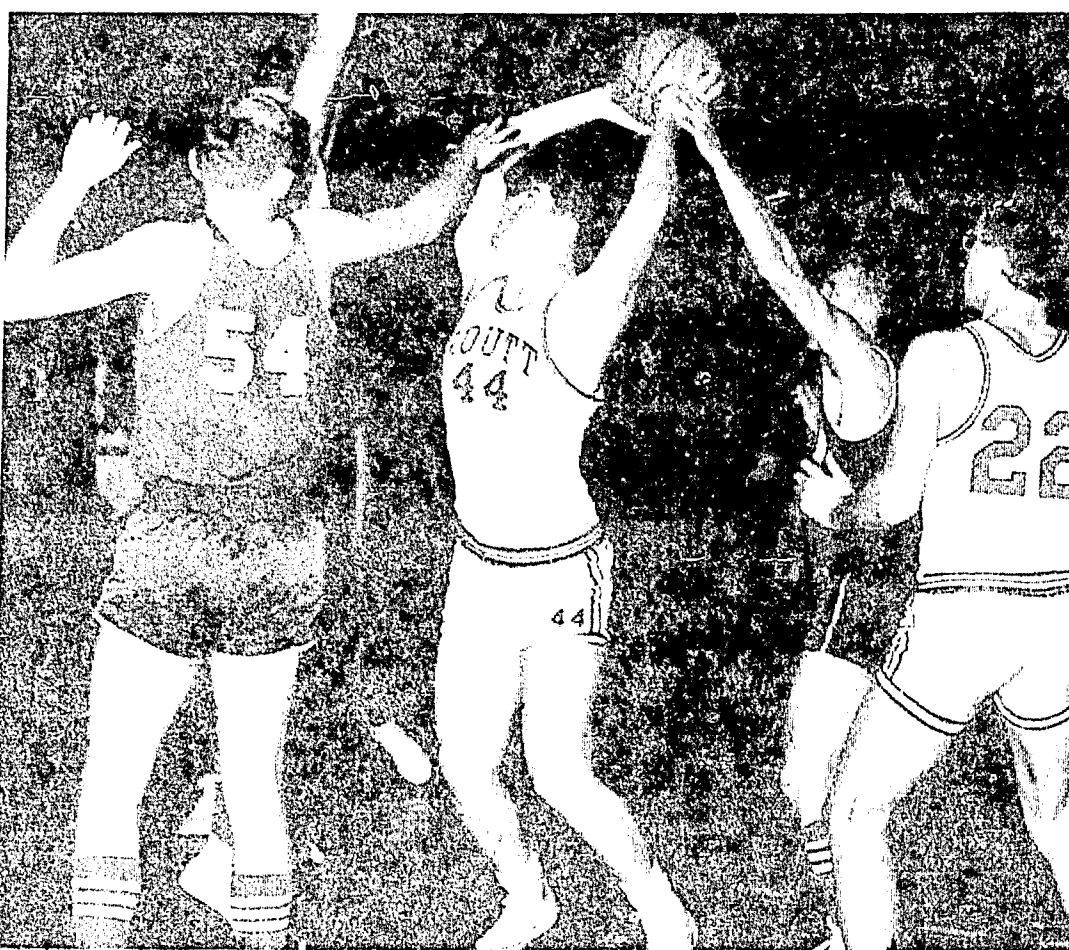

Coach "Pick" Dehner of East St. Louis high recorded his 400th win during the East St. Louis holiday tourney and his club won the title by beating Collinsville's Kahoks. Granite City has a new scorer in Larry Ripka who caused Pekin trouble at Pontiac's tourney. Edwardsville under veteran coach Joe Lucco is scoring heavily, having dazed opponents with its firewagon attack.

UNDECIDED ON COACH ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Naval Academy still hasn't even decided whether one of the present assistants will be considered to succeed Wayne Hardin as football coach.

"We're taking our time on this very important decision," Capt. William Busik, athletic director, said Thursday.

Attack From The Rear

Payson's Pete Peter gets a hand on the ball from behind as Routt's Bill Templin goes up for a shot. On the side is Rocket Jerry McGinnis (22). Routt came on strong in the second half for a 53-49 upset over the Indians.

St. John's Upsets Wolverines, 75-74

NEW YORK (AP) — St. John's Redmen came from 16 points back midway through the last half Saturday night and upset mighty Michigan, the nation's top-ranked college basketball power, 75-74 in the title game of the Holiday Festival tournament.

Providence Nips St. Joseph's On Free Throws 65-61

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Undeclared Providence won a last-minute battle of foul shots Saturday night to knock 10th-ranked St. Joseph's from the ranks of the undefeated 65-61.

With 1:47 to play, Mike Riordan began the foul shot swapping to give Providence a 60-55 lead. At 1:09, he sank two more free throws and the Friars led 62-55.

Then Charlie Anderson of the Philadelphia team moved to the foul line, closing the gap to 62-58 with 42 seconds to play. He sank two more free throws to make the score 62-60 after Riordan fouled out while playing him too closely.

Anderson was hit hard with 35 seconds to go and was shaken up. He made only one of two shots this time—he was given a few minutes to settle down—and that ended the scoring for St. Joseph's.

11 From Gator Bowl Sign Pacts

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Counting four who signed a little too early to make the Gator Bowl game, 11 players on the Oklahoma and Florida State football teams have joined the ranks of professional football.

It was learned Friday on the eve of the game that fullback Jim Grisham, halfback Lance Rentzel, tackle Ralph Neely and end Wes Skidgel of Oklahoma already had signed undated pro pacts.

After the game, guard Ed McQuarters of Oklahoma signed with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League. Minnesota of the NFL got Grisham, Rentzel and Skidgel. The Houston Oilers of the American Football League signed Neely.

Florida State's All-America flanker, Fred Biletnikoff, signed a two-year contract with the Oakland Raiders of the AFL. Quarterback Steve Tensi, end Don Floyd, center Jack Edwards and placekicker Les Murdock went to San Diego Chargers of the AFL. Murdock also missed the game when his eligibility was questioned, but it didn't involve a pro signing.

Tackle Avery Sumner of FSU signed with the Detroit Lions of the NFL.

AFTER INDIANA POST SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Football Coach Ray Nagel says he plans to confer with Indiana University athletic director Bill Orwig on the vacant Hoosier coaching job.

Cincinnati, up by as many as 14 in the last half, just held on against a Princeton rally 71-69 and took third place.

The shocking upset, in which the Redmen came from a 60-52 deficit midway through the final half, was forged on the rebounding of St. John sophomore Sonny Dove and the steady backcourt play of Ken McIntyre and Jerry Houston against the Michigan press.

Dove kept the Redmen in the running in the early going, hitting his first seven shots from the field, and kept it going with his crucial rebounding against the taller, stronger Wolverines.

The Redmen outscored Michigan 18-2 over one stretch, lying it 70-70 on a McIntyre jumper. Free throws by Michigan's Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntlin matched a Dove jumper.

Houston then ripped through on a drive for a 74-72 lead, moments later adding a free throw. Michigan's George Pomey got a tip-in to cut the margin to 75-74 with 19 seconds left and the Wolverines got possession again with seven seconds left but couldn't get off a shot.

Dove finished with 23 points and 18 rebounds while Russell led Michigan with 24.

St. Louis Bench Nets 62-55 Edge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis University, despite losing two tall regulars on personal fouls in the opening five minutes of the second half, used its bench to defeat Drake University 62-55 in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Billikens were able to score their eighth victory in 11 games and the second without a defeat in conference play even though their leading scorer, Gil Beckemeier, and their best rebounder, Rich Parks, fouled out shortly after the second half started.

Four free throws by two substitutes, John Kilo and Randy Albecht, sent St. Louis 10 ahead, 53-43 with eight minutes to play.

When the Pirates made their final trip of the season to Philadelphia and beat Dennis Bennett in late August it marked the 17th straight incomplete game for the young southpaw pitcher Games Tuesday night pit Alsey and Brussels and Kampsville vs. Eldred. Wednesday night it will be Hardin meeting defending champion El. John's of Carrollton and Kane vs. Hillview.

The semi-finals will be staged Thursday night and the finals Friday evening.

The first game each night starts at 6:45 and the second at 8 p.m.

Minnesota 80, Detroit 66 MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota, rebounding from two straight losses in the Los Angeles tournament, defeated Detroit 80-66 Saturday night in its final tune-up for the Big Ten basketball season.

Lou Hudson got 25 points for Minnesota as the Gophers built an 18-point lead in the first half.

Not satisfied with the Crimsons' showing against Pinesville in the tourney opener, Jones called the team together immediately afterward to make some changes.

"We talked it over for about an hour and a half in the locker room and made some offensive changes, said Jones. I felt we had not been working our patterns enough, especially when we would get a lead in a game."

The story of the team thus far in the season has been one of the Crimsons taking an early lead then settling back only to find itself soon having to fight to stay in front.

Whitaker went into the tournament as the Crimsons' top scorer, around the 15-per-game mark, but garnered only 11 points in the first two games.

According to fans and coach Rich Jones, who warned before the team went to the tourney of the vast change in officiating, this closer-whistling of fouls definitely had an effect on Whitaker's play.

Whitaker is the speedy type of player who thrives on driving with the ball in close for a vast part of his points. In the first two games Whitaker experienced early foul trouble due mainly to charging violations whistled against him on drives in close.

In the final two games of the tournament Whitaker snapped out of his scoring letdown with 47 points, 27 in the championship contest.

This was due in part to Whitaker's resorting more to outside shooting, which was a team strong point in the entire three-day affair, and perhaps more so in his now-advanced knowledge of just what the officials would allow and would not.

The plane bumped down through the mist hanging over Baltimore, carrying a load of losers, and as the wheels lightly kissed the concrete runway, one of the Colts interrupted his poker game in the lounge area long enough to yell out, "First touchdown we've made today."

It came, of course, after the Colts were blanked by the Browns, 27-0.

Now about this for a teacher?

Heavy January Snow Top Weather Story

The top weather story for 1964 in Jacksonville occurred on January 12 when eleven and one half inches of snow completely isolated Jacksonville and many surrounding towns.

Winds of 40 miles per hour, sometimes gusting to 60 miles per hour, caused the snow to drift and block most of the roads in the area for the day.

Virtually every business closed, including all local schools the following day.

Lutheran Men To Hear Senator In City Monday

State Senator Paul Simon of Troy will be the feature speaker at the LLL Roll Call Membership kick-off dinner at Salem School on Monday, Jan. 4, 6:30 p.m. The Lutheran Laymen's League sponsors the International Lutheran Hour, provides scholarships, fosters educational seminars, and provides in-service training for Kingdom workers.

Simon, publisher of 8 weekly newspapers, first achieved recognition through his Troy newspaper in fighting organized crime in his county. During this time he appeared as a witness before the Kefauver committee and was the subject of a feature story in Newsweek magazine.

Simon bought the paper in Troy when he was 19. At that time he was probably the youngest newspaper publisher in the country.

During his army service, Simon served as a special agent for the Counter Intelligence Corps along the Iron Curtain in Central Europe.

Simon has studied political and economic conditions in a number of countries. He has traveled abroad four times and visited in five continents.

During the current legislative session he writes a column for more than 300 Illinois newspapers. In 1957 the American Political Science Association gave him a special award for "distinguished reporting of state and local government" in his column. His writings have appeared in several national magazines including Time magazine.

Simon is serving his first term in the Senate after four terms in the House. Each of his four House terms he received the Independent Voters of Illinois "best legislator" award.

Prior to the 1962 election he was prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for U.S. Senator.

Simon is author of the book, "Lovejoy: Martyr to Freedom" published this fall and of "Lincoln's Preparation for Greatness" to be published in 1965.

He is married to the former Jeanne Hurley who served in the Illinois House of Representatives, where the two met and became the first husband and wife team in Illinois legislative history.

Review Scott Price Support Rates For 1964

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)

WINCHESTER—The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office states that the deadline for filing applications for price support on a number of 1964 crops is near. An approved application entitles a producer to receive price support through loans or purchases of the Community Credit Corporation (CCC).

Nimrod Funk, chairman of the ASC County Committee, announced that because January 31 will be on Sunday, the filing deadline will be February 1. The crops covered include barley, grain sorghums, oats, rye, soybeans and wheat. Corn applications may be made until May 31.

Scott County's support rates on the above crops are as follows: barley-89 cents per bu.; corn - $1.12; oats - 65 cents; wheat - $1.40; rye - $1.18; soybeans - $2.29; grain sorghums - $1.71 per cwt. The final maturity dates for loans are as follows: barley, April 30; corn, July 30; oats, April 30; wheat, March 31; rye, April 30; soybeans, July 31 and grain sorghums, March 31.

Funk said growers should keep close watch on the condition of commodities stored on the farm. Condition and quality of the crop will be the determining factor in price if the producer decides to deliver the crop under the support program at the end of the season.

Mayor Names New Inspector To Old Position

Mayor Byron Holkenbrink announced the appointment of a new plumbing inspector to an old position.

C. C. Rhodes, 806 East College Avenue, was named as acting plumbing inspector for the City of Jacksonville Saturday, a position that should be familiar to him in every detail. Mr. Rhodes served in the same capacity for more than 20 years and retired from the job several years ago.

The office of plumbing inspector has been vacant since the resignation of Henry Cruse Dec. 1. Mr. Cruse left the office to accept other employment.

Mayor Holkenbrink said Mr. Rhodes will begin his employment as plumbing inspector on January 4 and asked the cooperation of all engaged in the plumbing trade.

Provisions of the plumbing ordinance state: "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to install or remodel any plumbing, drainage or plumbing ventilation system without first receiving a permit to do so." The ordinance covers all plumbing in the city and the Village of South Jacksonville.

Bradish Files Answer To Suit On Vote Recount

Circuit Clerk Philip Bradish, through his attorneys, has filed a petition with the Morgan County Circuit Court asking that a civil suit contesting his election Nov. 3 be dismissed on grounds that the legal facts are insufficient in law.

Included in the petition, filed Thursday afternoon by attorneys Robert Bradney and William T. Wilson, were several paragraphs charging that the allegations in the original suit, filed by Joe Casey Dec. 3, are irrelevant and that the contest is limited to the question of "who was elected."

Associate Circuit Judge John B. Wright has requested the chief judge of the seventh judicial circuit to appoint a judge whose name did not appear on the Nov. 3 ballot to hear the case involving the election contest in Morgan County. Judge Wright suggested that the chief judge invite a judge from outside the seventh circuit to hear the case.

Bradish, the incumbent Republican, was elected by 35 votes according to the official tally. Casey, a Democrat, asked for a discovery recount in twelve precincts and ended up with an unofficial 19 vote edge after several ballots were thrown out in two precincts.

The ballots are believed to be those cast by absentee voters and not initiated by election judges in the two precincts.

No date has been set for hearing the election contest suit.

Meanwhile Bradish was declared the official winner of the office on the basis of the official tally and took his oath of office Dec. 3 along with other county officials. He will retain the office until such time as the courts may reverse the official canvass of Morgan County.

The judge has not been assigned to hear the case thus far.

County Treasurer Helen Mayberry announced that earnings from fees collected by her during 1964 amounted to more than $15,000 over the expense of running the office.

Mrs. Mayberry turned over $15,000 to the board of county commissioners for use in the county's general fund last week.

Mrs. Mayberry said the fees collected by her office include one per cent of all money going in and out of the various county accounts plus four per cent of all state inheritance taxes collected for the state treasurer.

Mrs. Mayberry said the excess fees returned to the county a year ago was $10,000 and that the 1964 figure was a 50 per cent increase.

Chester Thomason, chairman of the board of county commissioners, said that Morgan county's tax rate for the general fund was set each year after receiving a report from other county officials concerning the amount of excess funds returned to the general fund.

Mr. Thomason said that funds returned each year by the treasurer, county clerk, sheriff and circuit clerk make it possible for Morgan county to assess a lower levy for the general fund and still stay within a carefully tailored budget.

Fire Calls Increase In 1964

Fire runs made by the Jacksonville fire department increased in 1964, but the property loss for the year decreased in comparison to the previous year, according to a year-end report released Saturday.

Figures compiled by the department showed property loss at approximately $24,995 less than the previous year's report and that 1964 also represented a $7,198 decrease in the amount of damage to contents of the property.

In 1964 there were 348 calls made by the department, which was an increase of 71 over 1963. The report pointed out that the majority of calls received by the department concerned grass and trash fires. In 1963, the report showed 44 grass fires. For the next year, the figure jumped to almost double the previous year, 80.

Aid to motor vehicles was the second highest on the list, 61, 11 over the figures representing 1963.

Public Service Calls
The report stated, "There was other times when the department was called to render assistance to the people of the community, such as installing ropes on flag poles, standing by while tree limbs were removed near power lines and re-anchoring tin flashing on the public square."

These instances, the report continued, were not reported but instead were listed as public protection courtesies.

"The men are always interested in the services of helping the training of personal at the local hospitals and nursing homes in a program of fire safety and evacuation," the report stated.

Several members of the department lectured and demonstrated on fire rescue, Scuba diving, use of fire extinguishers and fire safety.

Figures listed in the report represented a total of 277 calls for 1963 and a total of 348 for 1964.

"In 1963, the department had a number of large losses in dwellings, downtown and residential that placed the loss at $53,335 for buildings valued at $283,000 and $38,603 to contents valued at $112,500.

"1964 totals revealed $691,100 worth of property involved at a loss of $28,340 and contents valued at $436,899 with a $31,465 loss.

"These figures are only estimated but represent a fairly close value of loss of property and contents involved in the past year," the report concluded.

Reapportionment For House, Senate Heads '65 Agenda

More News From China?

After years of barring Americans from travel to Communist China for any reason, the State Department is allowing a New York doctor to go to Peking to teach doctors there his operation to restore hearing. Those of an optimistic turn of mind might read a bit of symbolism into this.

For now that the State Department has decided it is all right to let the Red Chinese in on our ear operations, State may also decide that it is all right to let the American people in on some firsthand news about Red China. Visits by U.S. newsmen—the ears, be it noted, of the public—may now be permitted.

This may be stretching optimism too far. Washington may continue to balk at allowing press coverage of China, holding that there is a basic difference between sending a doctor for humanitarian purposes and allowing newsmen to go for no other reason than to inform the public.

Logically, however, State will not have much of a leg to stand on if it now continues to refuse passports to newsmen who want to go to China. Heretofore it has refused passports on the unconvincing grounds that the United States could not effectively protect U.S. nationals in China. But now one may ask: If this does not prevent allowing a doctor to visit Peking, why does it prevent allowing newsmen to go?

There are other obstacles. The Peking government probably would not put out the welcome mat for many reporters; perhaps it would bar most of them. But if State Department restrictions were eased, that would at least improve the chances of our getting some direct news out of China now and then. At present, Americans have but little opportunity to learn what is going on in that nation of 700 million people. This is a ridiculous situation which ought to be changed.

Curbing The Bias

A lot of breast-beating and cries of outrage have, to no one's surprise, been aroused by Secretary McNamara's announcement that he plans to switch Army Reserve units to the National Guard. Not unexpectedly, the greatest agitation has been shown by the Reserve Officers Association, which represents some 50,000 reserve officers in all the services. But beyond this predictable outcry there also have been indications that a serious effort will be made in Congress to thwart the Pentagon's intention.

No one can take exception to this. The plan to wipe out the Reserve units represents a major shift in our preparedness system. It is not merely the privilege but the high duty of Congress to determine whether in its judgment the Department of Defense is acting wisely. There are good arguments on both sides of this question.

It is hard to see how there can be much quarrel, however, with McNamara's other contemplated orders —one to transfer 83 members of Congress and some 150,000 other federal employees from the ready reserve to the inactive reserve; the other to restrict overseas travel of members of Congress as guests of individual services.

McNamara has rightly observed that many key federal employees now in the ready reserves would be more valuable in their government jobs than in the armed services in an emergency. This applies particularly to members of Congress. In their case there is the added consideration that legislators actively involved in the reserve program may tend to have a service bias when considering legislation.

As for travel, the new dispensation simply assures that members of Congress will not be going abroad as guests of this or that service. Henceforth, such travel will have to be approved by the office of the secretary of defense and will be insofar as possible on a multi-service basis. This, again, should make for less bias.

Secretary Proves Toughest Dictation

Is Kind You Get From Your Conscience

LANDERS

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I just wanted you to know. The dozens of boss-secretary affair letters which have appeared in your column have not gone unheeded. One such letter changed my life.

I worked many years for a man I found inordinately attractive. It was actually painful when his wife called. My ambivalent feelings drove me mad when I made travel plans and attended to personal matters which involved them both. Several weeks ago I read a letter in your column from a secretary whose situation was a carbon of my own. Your advice was, "Quit torturing yourself—unless you enjoy it, that is. Look in the classified section of this newspaper and find another job." That's precisely what I did.

The boss was shocked. My family was stunned. No one could understand why I would arbitrarily abandon such a fine position. Strangely enough my recovery was rapid and complete.

You'll never know how I hated you when I read your advice. You'll never know how much I respect you now that I have taken it. —THANKFUL.

Dear Ann Landers: Which one of your "experts" did you consult for your reply to the woman whose husband was "Out of things to say"? It must have been the milkman.

Church work, club work, Great Books groups and political action are not satisfactory substitutes for a husband's attention.

For years I have tried to find something my husband and I could do together. I attempted to interest him in the activities I enjoyed. It was hopeless, so I became interested in his activities. Then he lost interest. He doesn't want a companion. He wants a body without a mind.

I have no words of advice for the woman who wrote. If I knew the answer I wouldn't be writing to your corny newspaper column. Instead, I'd write a book and make a million dollars.

Rather than trying to please my husband, if I had invested my time and energy in business or higher education, I'd be a tycoon or the president of a university by this time. But I didn't want that. I wanted a home. And that's what I have. But it's empty empty empty. —VETERAN OF DOMESTIC WARS

Dear Ann Landers: French is ruining my life. It's not the language I hate, it's the teacher. Right now I have a splitting headache from worry and tension.

I'm scared stiff I will flunk. I am short-tempered and ugly to my friends and family. Please tell me what to do. THE FRENCH REVOLUTIONIST

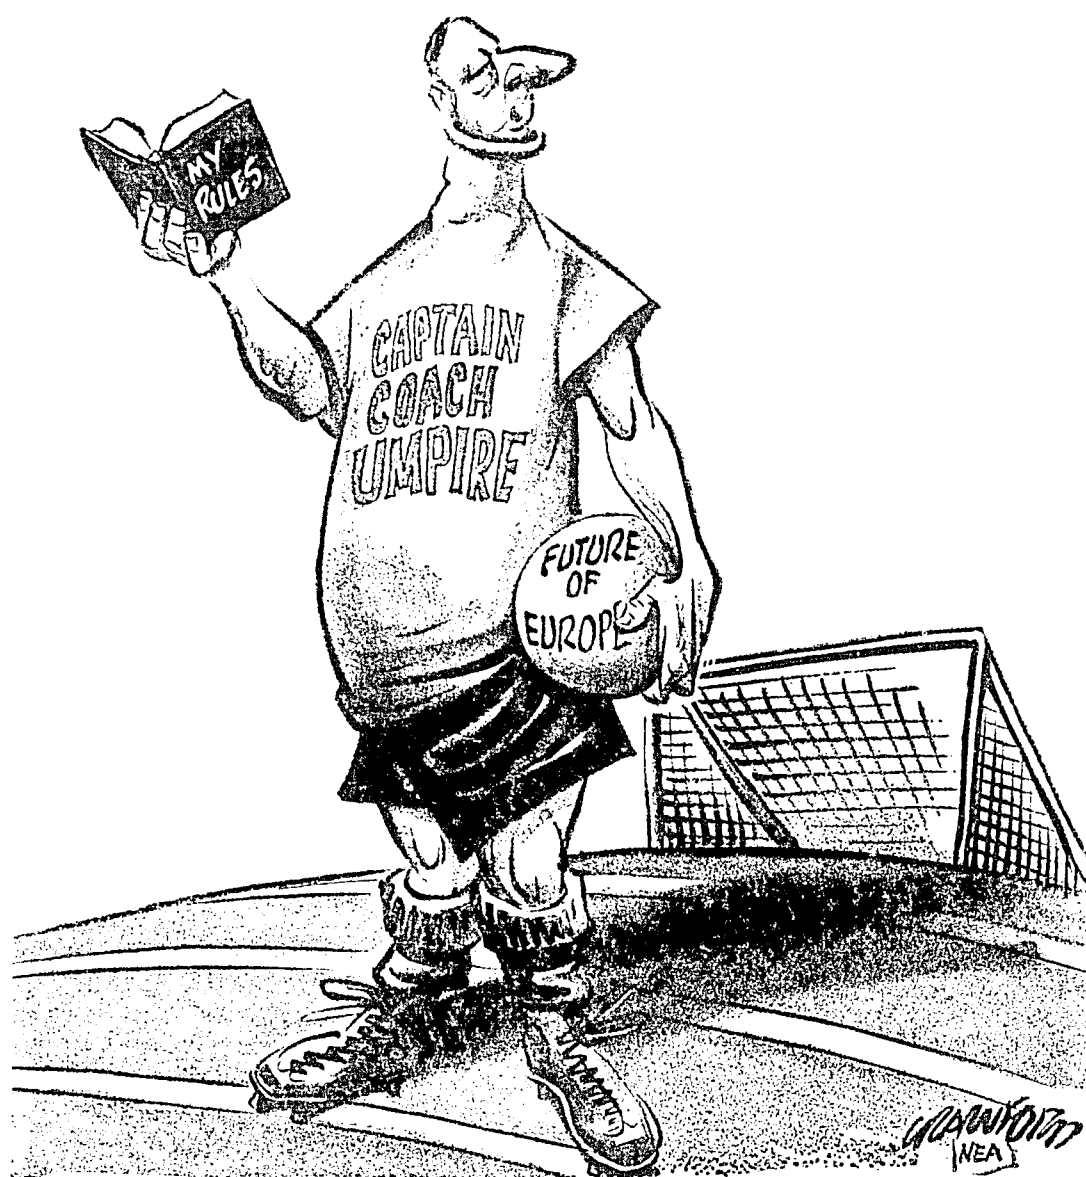

Dear Revolutionist: Stop thinking of French as a matter of life and death and try to figure out why you hate the teacher. If you feel the teacher has it in for you, ask why—and what you can do to improve the relationship.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nigeria Seems Chief Hope Of New Africa's Stability

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Year-end elections, the first in five years, could have an important effect on the valued stability of populous Nigeria.

This relatively sturdy rock, whose 55 million people comprise roughly a fifth of all Africa's population, stands in many ways as the brightest hope in the huge collection of new African states.

In the elections called to fill 312 seats in Nigeria's lower house, two major coalitions of parties are arrayed in what could prove to be a close fight. Most of the individual parties have a strongly regional base in a nation with sharp regional and ethnic divisions.

Caught up though it is in the confusions of an ardent campaign, Nigeria nevertheless spoke dramatically in the United Nations in opposition to 18 lesser African states which, in strident racist tones, lashed the U.S.-Belgian air rescue of beleaguered whites and blacks from the Congo.

The big point is not, however, that Africa's most populous land spoke up for us and for the duly constituted Congolese government of Moise Tshombe. It is that Nigeria holds so much promise for the future and can conceivably lead the way toward a broader African stability.

Hopefully, the common sense balance now prevailing in Nigeria among its rival tribes and regions will not be upset if the leading party element in the outgoing government — the Northern People's Congress — is somehow thrust aside in the Dec. 30 voting.

The NPC's leader, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, is the present Nigerian prime minister. His party gained more than a third of all House seats in the 1959 elections. It governed through coalition with other parties.

Today the NPC is campaigning as part of a seven-party alliance, with itself and the Nigerian National Democratic party the largest elements.

Use commercially prepared sour cream when a recipe calls for that ingredient, not pasteurized heavy cream that's turned sour during an over-long stay in the refrigerator.

The rival group is the United Progressive Grand Alliance, in which the most important constituent parties are the National Council of Nigerian Citizens and the so-called Action Group in Western Nigeria. The NCNC had been part of the recently dissolved government coalition.

For outsiders, the significance of these two campaigning alliances is that they seem to offer one more impressive demonstration of the Nigerians' determination to find workable answers to their problems.

Without the two big canvases these coalitions provide, Nigerian politics might at this point be bogged down hopelessly in interregional and intertribal combat.

Yet the existence of the alliances should not suggest all is rosy. Nigerian politics often flares into bitter violence, and may again. A kind of uneasy truce now rules among the competing forces.

What appears to save the country is a brand of elemental political wisdom that reflects the presence there of a sizable cadre of trained civil servants—something the chaotic Congo gravely lacks. In Nigeria there is respect for the rule of law, for justice and for freedom.

Blessed with good national and regional leaders, the country is steadily conscious of its size and consequent predominance in the general African setting.

In a very real sense Nigeria is new Africa's keystone. It has a genuine economic potential, with cotton, cacao, palm oil, nuts and a growing oil output. But there are population pressures, a shift to the cities, a mounting need for good jobs and men trained for them.

The Nigerians badly need more capital and more technical aid. Their impressive record as a young nation suggests they deserve it.

Dear Sir:

I was astonished to read as frontpage news in your paper that Marina Oswald enrolled in an English course.

It was unbelievable that Americans donated thousands of dollars for her welfare; but to make a frontpage heroine out of the wife of the killer of an American President is in my opinion the height of tactlessness and not worthy of an otherwise good newspaper.

Gentlemen:

I see where the President's Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer, and Strokes is asking for $10 million to "educate the public on the hazards of smoking."

Isn't there a conflict of interest here? How can the government subsidize tobacco farming to the tune of many millions a year and at the same time spend another huge sum trying to reduce smoking?

The whole thing boils down to whether a citizen should do what is good for himself (not smoke) or what is good for his country (smoke). President Kennedy dramatized this distinction when he said, in effect, "Ask what you can do for your country, not what your country can do for you."

Why does our government work at such cross purposes? Uncle Sam wants the tobacco industry to stay healthy because its taxes help pay the 50 billion dollars lost each year by government business enterprises NOT authorized by the U.S. Constitution.

Confusing, isn't it? But then it has its compensations. For example, as you smoke yourself to death at least you can die happy. Just think of all the good your cigarette tax money is doing. You are helping to finance the "Great Society."

So smoke, man, smoke!
Yours truly,

FINDING THE WAY

Go For Broke

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a poignant event from 20 years ago that needs to be remembered as we enter another year. The remarkable little book "Unwilling Journey" is the telling of one man's personal confrontation with communism. Pastor Gollwitzer was in a Russian prison camp. He had been tortured by the Nazi fanaticism in his own country and now he was delivered into another fanaticism. Walking into a church service that was to be held in these desolate surroundings, he passed a young man who said, "It is all so meaningless, so senseless."

So Gollwitzer writes, "That was it — not only our faith, but everything in the world was meaningless and everything in the world, even our fate would be filled with meaning through the redeeming hour in which the Eternal Life took upon itself the nature of our poverty. Why did I pass by and leave him leaning against the wall in despair, instead of inviting him into our service?"

"Thinking about it today, I know that herein lies our worst and most frequent failing — that of enjoying the Gospel instead of passing it on, of passing by when a despairing man has lost faith in the Gospel because he has never experienced it personally."

In this time of much cynicism we need a rebirth of vocation. In a time of disaster we know how to rally to a cause and to share magnificently. Now we need to know how to rally in a time of affluence, called by the quality of our faith instead of just by the pressure of danger.

I don't know whether many people really make New Year's resolutions any more. Perhaps they're cynical about the business, not certain that they'll ever keep them anyhow.

Nonetheless, I'm impressed with the earnest people in almost every community who devote themselves to civic programs, philanthropic groups and causes which demand dedication of time and thought. If this is true, then there's hope in giving this age a sense of vocation. Too many of those old resolutions were just patching up the situation instead of transforming the person. We need this sense of vocation.

It was easy enough for the pastor to remember that despairing man who had found life meaningless. Our problem is that we move so rapidly that we don't see them. Sometimes we don't even recognize the loss in our own lives.

This year will take many of us on "unwilling journeys." The way in which we respond and the quality of faith we share will make the difference. We are here not just to enter a year, but to enrich this margin of time.

John Ciardi once said of this age, "We are so afraid of going broke that we are afraid to go for broke." Resolved: To find that redeeming faith that can transform such despair — and go for broke.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Gout Depends on Person

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Q—I have gout. My wife is always telling me that's because I've lived too high, eaten and drunk too much. Is her "moral" attitude justified?

A—A new handbook published by The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, entitled "Diet and Arthritis," written by this columnist, answers your question. The section on gout reads, "Gout has been traditionally associated with 'high living,' rich foods and drink. Modern research, however, has discovered that in most instances the basic cause is that persons with gout have a metabolic defect in the ability to metabolize purine—the proteins which form uric acid. An accumulation of uric acid in the system of such individuals may occur even on a diet normal in protein, and with normal kidney action. However, gouty attacks may be triggered in susceptible people by dietary excesses and other situations such as excessive dieting or alcohol consumption, or emotional upset through the effect on the body chemistry.

"With a better understanding of the disease and with the new drugs for the management of gout, blood uric acid levels can be controlled without rigid dietary restrictions. Even so, most physicians recommend that people subject to gout not tempt fate through indulgence in fatty foods and alcohol, and through the elimination of such foods as liver, kidney, sweetbreads and beer. Coffee, acid, and cocoa need not be restricted. Fluid intake should be liberal so that uric acid can be effectively eliminated."

IN HOLLYWOOD

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Timmy St. Clair, after more than three months as backup, side-kick and — most often — situation-saver for his television relatives, "The Rogues," recently was assigned the leading role in a serious behind-the-camera drama.

In his real-life, well-tailored personality, Timmy's name is Robert Coote. Recently he flew to New York from Hollywood for a few intensive days of plugging the Sunday night NBC series, which in spite of rapturous notices is not receiving very high audience ratings.

Coote, featured in the series which stars Gig Young, Charles Boyer and David Niven, actually is the busiest rogue of them all, appearing prominently in support of one or another of the stars each week. He is seen as a sort of pip-pip English type at the beginning of each episode, but then usually disappears into one or another of the disguises in which the light-hearted series specializes.

Coote, before he made his television mark as one of a band of right-thinking, honorable, humane international confidence men, was a well-known character actor of the Broadway and London stage and many a motion picture. It was Coote who created the original role of Colonel Pickering in the Broadway and London companies of "My Fair Lady," a role that kept him busy four solid years.

"The Rogues" was conceived as a motion picture designed to star David Niven. Coote—in Budapest making a film—was asked to do the Timmy role. By the time he got to Hollywood, it had been converted into a television series by Four Star Productions.

"Originally, Niven was to carry a vegetable with meat or fish.

ry five of the shows, Boyer 10 and Gig Young 15," Coote explained. "But I rather think Charles is doing a bit more. After all, he's the president of the company and besides I rather think he enjoys all that false beard and eye-glasses business anyway."

Coote is a Londoner by birth and a fifth-generation member of a theatrical family.

Coote finds himself puzzled by frequent references to his television series as "sophisticated."

"Actually, you know, it's not sophisticated at all," he said. "It's all strictly schoolboy stuff and played for comedy. I do think it would be a good idea to do something about the character's finances."

One of the necessary gimmicks of the show, in this medium where crime is not allowed to pay, is for the rogues, after taking some unsavory character for a bundle, to turn the whole thing over to a worthy cause. Some literal-minded fans wonder, occasionally, how these suave thieves manage to pay the rent on their elegant headquarters, drive expensive cars and generally toss money around.

Coote lives in a Beverly Hills apartment, works the usual grueling hours a series demands and exercises when possible by taking long walks on weekends. When the show is on vacation — the first one comes in March — he'll go home to England, visit his mother and sister and play golf daily.

He finished his second cup of tea, sighed and dashed off to appear on another television program and talk up the show some more.

A little learning, as the saying goes, is likely to be a dangerous thing. West had read a lot of bridge books and learned about unusual swindle plays, but he had not learned to count hands at the same time.

Expert South looked over dummy and noted that someone had bid too much. He blamed his partner mentally, but refrained from any comments. He saw a way to bring success from the wreckage if only West would fall for an unusual play in spades.

Of course, if East held the king of spades, South would have a cinch for his contract.

Elmer Grandstaff has also been newly assigned here as plant manager. Roy Roberts of Beardstown is production control supervisor.

The facilities at the plant have been doubled to an area of 65,000 square feet, Rotarians were told.

They were shown various stages of fabrication of large air-cooled condensers for air conditioning systems as well as large industrial-type heating and cooling blower units.

Treadway's contribution was announced by Robert Buck, chairman of the committee seeking $35,000 for the local cost of a $200,000 airport.

The sum collected thus far is $23,159 according to Mr. Buck.

JADE FOR A LADY

BY M. E. CHABER

THE STORY: Jimmy Shan, a resident of Hong Kong who sells information, has offered his services to Milo March in the quest for the stolen jade necklace.

XI

"Well, you're honest at least," I said. "You sound as if you might be useful; but how do I know that you won't work for me and then also sell your services to those for whom I look?"

"It would be beneath my dignity," he said. "Besides, it is not good business."

"Okay, Jimmy. We'll try it for a few days and see what happens. If you produce, we'll continue. I'll pay you at the end of each day, starting tomorrow."

"That is satisfactory," he said. He finished his drink and stood up. "Now I will run along, as you will want to get ready for your date with Miss McKay."

"You know about that too?"

"Oh yes. She is, as you would say, a doll. I trust it will be a pleasant evening."

"One thing more, Mr. March..."

"Yes?"

"There are many here who make a living by prying secrets from Hong Kong and selling them. My chances of success will be greater if no one else knows about our arrangement."

"All right."

"I will see you tomorrow," he said. He crossed the room swiftly and was gone through the door.

"I'd already learned one lesson from him. On my way out, I stopped at the desk and had them put part of my money in the hotel safe. Then I went out on to the address Linda McKay had given me."

It was a small but well-furnished apartment in one of the newer buildings. I had to wait while she finished dressing, and I wandered around the living room. One wall caught my eye. A whole section, like a miniature bookcase, had been built there, covering the wall from floor to ceiling. The shelves were filled with various Oriental figures, most of them made out of china but some were stone and some were of flawed or cheap jade. Nevertheless, most of them were attractive, and I was still examining them when she came in ready to go.

We went to the Hong Kong Hotel for cocktails and dinner and afterwards to the Laichikok Club and danced. Except for the number of Oriental faces, we might as well have been back in New York.

There was no conversation about business. We talked about all the little things that people do, when they're getting acquainted. It was very pleasant and romantic.

I took Linda home about one in the morning. I had the taxi wait while I walked her to her apartment.

"Thanks, Linda," I said at the apartment door, "for taking the time to show a tourist around. It was fun."

"It wasn't entirely altruistic," she said. "I had fun, too, Milo."

"Then we'll do it again."

"Tomorrow night?"

"I don't think so, honey," I said. "I have an appointment and I'm not sure how long it will take. But if not tomorrow night, then probably the night after that. If you're free."

"I will be," she said. "And if you do get through early tomorrow night, call me. Maybe you can come up for a drink."

I said good night and went back to the taxi. It was only a short ride to the hotel. I went straight up to my room. I unlocked the door and stepped inside, flicking on the light. I closed the door and turned around.

The point of a knife was only a couple of inches from my belt buckle.

The knife was held by a large Chinese dressed in tailored pants and shirt. His face was slack. His eyes were out of focus, the pupils dilated. I didn't think he was going to waste any time in idle conversation with me.

My gun was across the room in a dresser drawer beneath some shirts. I didn't want just to stand there, waiting to be stuck like a pig on the morning of a festival day. I took the only course left.

I slashed my left hand across his wrist, at the same time twisting my body as fast as I could. The blow didn't stop him, but it delayed his lunge by a fraction of a second. It was just enough. I felt a burning sensation along my side, but I had him where I wanted him. I grabbed his wrist with one hand and his elbow with the other, and shoved down as hard as I could. At the same moment I brought my knee up to meet his arm. There was a dull cracking sound and the breath whistled from his mouth. The knife dropped to the floor. His right arm flopped like an old sock.

Prayer Poem— Bible Has Aid For Every Need

By Mary Pence Claywell

The "Good Book" has a message for every man on earth. Those who are almost perfect, and those of lesser worth: If we are lost, or deep in sin, we only need to seek, For Jesus tells us plainly, "Rejoice, I've found my sheep." In need or desperation, take heart, dear one and then, Recall God's words to Peter, "Cast out thy nets again." An when life seems too rugged, your heart, these words, will soothe, He says, "I'll go before thee, and make rough places soothe. The sick find faith and healing, to comfort heart and soul, As Jesus sweetly whispers, "Thy faith has made thee whole." The earth may parch in dryness, and the tiller seeks his power, God hears, and there's an answer, "He makes it soft with showers." There always is a message, but it would be hard indeed, To name them all, Dear Father God, for there's one... for every need!

Rockets And Space—

IT HAPPENED IN 1964

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON, JR.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.—The United States launched an explorer satellite at 6:15 a.m. EST atop a three-stage Delta rocket to test a new method of tracking spacecrafts by light beams. A pencil thin beam of brilliant ruby red light from a laser transmitter, mounted on a tracking telescope, at Wallops Island, Va., was aimed at 360 one-inch mirrors on the explorer.

Busy Year
The United States has made several advances in space flight during 1964.

Out of 31 launchings by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) 27 were successful and one a partial success, making the year's space program 87% successful.

The Gemini two-seater capsule made its first unmanned orbital flight on April 9. The second shot however, was delayed until December 9, when lightning hit its launch pad in August.

When the rocket engines were fired for this shot one of the Titan II's two first stage engines exploded. The fire was put out quickly before the Gemini capsule was damaged but the shot had to be postponed until January, 1965. This set the first manned shot back to late March or early April.

The test launching of the Apollo, moonship came off better. On the first shot a Saturn rocket carried a model of the Apollo into orbit May 28, 1964. Another model of the Apollo was carried into orbit by a Saturn rocket on September 18, 1964.

On January 30, Ranger VI crashed on the moon but failed to get any pictures. It was followed on July 28, by Ranger VII which successfully sent back the first close-up of the Moon.

Try For Mars
NASA made its first try at reaching Mars on November 5, with the launching of Mariner IV. Mariner III ran out of power when it failed to throw off its nose cone after going into interplanetary orbit. Mariner IV, launched on November 28, was more successful and is now on course to fly by Mars in July.

Both NASA and the Air Force were busy launching satellites: Relay II on January 21, which relayed the first television programs between Japan and the United States.

The silver-coated Echo II, launched January 25, reflected the first radio messages to be sent from Russia to the United States via satellite.

Syncom III, launched into a 24 hour orbit above the equator over the Pacific on July 23, relayed TV pictures of the Olympic games from Tokyo to California.

Greg's Daring Escape

By John Rankin

Shadows of approaching night-fall heralded the end of a cold and blustery day as 12-year-old Greg Newell, his dad and Nick, a big black Labrador retriever, huddled in the duck blind at the river's edge.

Dad glanced at his watch and then out over the river at the overcast sky. "We'd better get out of here," he muttered. "Looks like a snowstorm coming up and we have only a few minutes before sundown. Can't risk even a single shot after that."

Greg looked up anxiously. "Ah! gee whiz, ad. Might be a whole drove of ducks coming over in another minute or so and we only need one more to make our limit."

Greg's Shot

Dad pumped the shells from his automatic and put the gun in its case. "Okay, son, we'll wait ten minutes," he grinned good-naturedly. "It's your shot if the ducks come in — but only one more, mind you. We don't want every game warden in the state after us."

Seconds later Greg whispered excitedly. "Hey, Dad, get a load of Nick. Must be ducks coming over and he can scent 'em, maybe."

Dad glanced around to where the big dog stood erect, eyes sparkling eagerly and body tensed for action. "Sure, he's got a nose full of ducks right now, and he can hear them, too. Get ready, son."

Heading Dad's advice Greg let the ducks come within range. Then picking out a big mallard he took careful aim and squeezed the trigger. "You got him, son," Dad exclaimed. "Bring him in, Nick."

The big retriever hit the water with a splash. In seconds he was back with the dead bird in his teeth. "Good boy, Nick," Greg praised. "I'll bet Dad will never sell you, even for a hundred dollars, maybe."

"I've sold some good ones — but money can't buy that dog," Dad declared. "Come on, son, let's clear out of here before we get snowed in."

But before they had reached the main highway the snow was coming down in great wind-swept flakes. "Looks like a blizzard setting in," Dad said seriously. "We'll be lucky if we make it home tonight."

It was a little angel, God has sent it, World... to you;

Many days, in which to thrive, "Three hundred," World, plus "sixty five,"

With golden hours, as you begin it, Set with diamond-studded minutes!

Shall it, old World, live in "Peace," Or shall "hate," and "greed" increase?

Will you keep it clean and good, Or defile it... with your blood? Will you let The Saviour in... Or keep wallowing... in your sin?

Once scarred, or blotted, World, with crime, It will show through-out all time;

Or a deed that's good and fair, Always will, old World... be there:

For each year, is like a man, Individual... God's Own Plan; Shed A Tear

"Nineteen Sixty Four," is dead, Yet, World, when its record's read,

CHRISTMAS MORN

On Christmas morn A babe is born. Angels come from heaven to sing. And with them holy gifts they bring.

On Christmas morn A babe is born. People come from near and far The wise men led by the light of a star.

On Christmas morn A babe is born. The babe who sleeps in the stable dim A halo of light hangs over him.

NEW YEAR'S HERE!

By Mary Pence Claywell

Goodness, gracious, pokes - alive
NOW IT'S NINETEEN SIXTY FIVE!
Perfect clean, without a scar, Yours to make, World, or to mar:

Like a Babe, as pure as dew, God has sent it, World... to you;

Many days, in which to thrive, "Three hundred," World, plus "sixty five,"

With golden hours, as you begin it, Set with diamond-studded minutes!

Shall it, old World, live in "Peace," Or shall "hate," and "greed" increase?

Will you keep it clean and good, Or defile it... with your blood? Will you let The Saviour in... Or keep wallowing... in your sin?

Once scarred, or blotted, World, with crime, It will show through-out all time;

Or a deed that's good and fair, Always will, old World... be there:

For each year, is like a man, Individual... God's Own Plan; Shed A Tear

"Nineteen Sixty Four," is dead, Yet, World, when its record's read,

Bow ye, o'er its battered bier, Smile, old World and shed a tear:
Many things are to its "good," Yet, it's dripping... with your "Blood!"

Clean New Year
"Sixty Five," comes clean and new
How it "leaves," is up to you; If its shroud is washed in tears, Hate, and blood, and greed and fears,
Peace, Hope, and calm... or Devil's brew,
From here on, World... it's up to you:
Thank Thee, Lord, for all the days,
May they ring with songs of praise; And may we salvage, from the past, All the "Good," and make it last,
And o'er the Old Year's silent bier, "Repent the 'Bad,' "and dry our tears!"

The Thirty Years War (1618 to 1648) was the last of the great religious wars of Europe.

The first atomic explosion occurred in New Mexico in 1945.

Opening lead—K.

A certain South African expert might have wound up with a brilliancy prize in 1964 instead of a possible booby prize if he had not been too brilliant when he got around to the play of the cards.

His team was behind in a long match and he reasoned that the West player of the other team would expect him to do a lot of bidding. Therefore, he simply passed throughout and elected to defend against the vulnerable four-heart contract. His bidding judgment was faultless. At the other table, West saved at five diamonds doubled and went minus 100. Therefore, if West had set this contract he would have made a nice profit for his team.

He opened the king of diamonds, noted his partner's play of the deuce; looked over the dummy carefully and led a low club.

This made matters easy for declarer. He drew trumps; knocked out West's ace of spades and lost another trick when West cashed his ace of clubs. Thus, he scored 620 to give his side a net gain of 720 on the hand.

Why was West's play too brilliant at the second trick?

Because West should have remembered that South had responded two hearts to the opening spade bid and that he needed the queen of clubs and every other missing face card to warrant that bid. Hence, West's only hope was to lead ace and another club and find his partner with a singleton.

JAN. 2

♥CARDSENSE♥

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♣	2♠	Pass	1♥
2♣	2♠	Pass	Pass
3♣	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

AK543 ♥A54 ♦QJ108 ♣32

What do you do?
A—Pass, or bid three diamonds. It depends on your knowledge of your partner's bidding habits.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two spades over West's two clubs, your partner jumps to three spades. What do you do in this instance?

Here Are Full Details In Using Handy Hangover Remedy From Congo

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The best way to start the New Year right is not to end the old year wrong. But, humanity being what it is, a certain number of people are bound to make too much whoopee tonight — My, I haven't heard that phrase since 1927 — and they will awake with a splitting headache and a feeling that their mouths are full of fur-covered Chinese fortune cookies.

They will have, my friends, what is known as a hangover. Their whole being will feel like one big raw nerve. If a fly buzzes past them it will sound like a jet plane taking off under full power.

They will have the feebleness and the quakes, the shivers and the quivers. And they will cry out in their lonely misery for help of any kind.

Naturally they will first turn to science. Well, science, which has done so much to solve the problem of space, has been somewhat less successful in solving the problem of the hangover.

I have at hand a 526-page authoritative tome entitled, "The Hangover," written by Dr. Benjamin Karpman, chief psychotherapist of St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington, D.C., the world capital of this malady.

After revealing that the hangover is caused by imbibing too much of the cup that cheers, a finding that will amaze few, Dr. Karpman concludes his long volume with this paragraph:

"No two hangovers are alike in their emotional and physical pain. No one will ever be able adequately to put into words the mental and physical anguish, the terror and despair, of any hangover."

Unfortunately, in the lengthy index there is no reference to a cure.

Well, that's science for you. It takes 526 pages to describe a disease you already know you have, but says nothing about how to get rid of it.

Let us turn to folklore. All veteran survivors of a hangover agree that the only sure cure is to lie down in a quiet place with closed eyes and let time go by.

There are, however, certain alleviative measures. One egregious error is to try some more of the hair of the dog that bit you. This gets rid of one hangover only to fasten a worse one upon you.

Other stratagems are to down a quart of buttermilk, a can of cold tomatoes, or two quarts of ice cream.

Hangover Remedy
A friend of mine, recently returned from the Congo, reports a native remedy developed by witch doctors that is even more effective.

You get a long bun and a round bun. Then you catch a crocodile and a hippopotamus.

Then you peel the hippopotamus and skin the crocodile, and put them both on the stove. You cook the crocodile until it is medium rare, and the hippopotamus well done. You have to turn up the back burner pretty high to cook the hippopotamus.

Then you put the crocodile in the long bun and cover it with mustard. Then you put the hippopotamus on the round bun and anoint it with catsup, salt and pepper according to taste. Now, alternately, you take a bite of the crocodile sandwich and a nibble of the hippopotamus sandwich.

HEAR DAUGHTER PERFORM
WHITE HALL — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Berline attended the Carol Concert Sunday night at the University of Illinois, which was presented by the Women's Glee Club, the university chorus and the Varsity Men's Glee Club assisted by the University of Illinois Wind Ensemble.

Their daughter, Miss Prudence Berline is a member of the second alto section of the Women's Glee Club; and Ron McConathy of Godfrey, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McConathy of this city, is a member of the baritone section of the Varsity Men's Glee Club.

THERE'S MORE OF EVERYTHING IN DOWNTOWN JACKSONVILLE

Suspense, Action And The Tourney Championship Thrill

FOLLOWING THE BOUNCING BALL—Carbondale's Billy Perkins (1) and teammate Denny Pankey and Crimson Creston Whitaker (12) get set for a rebound.

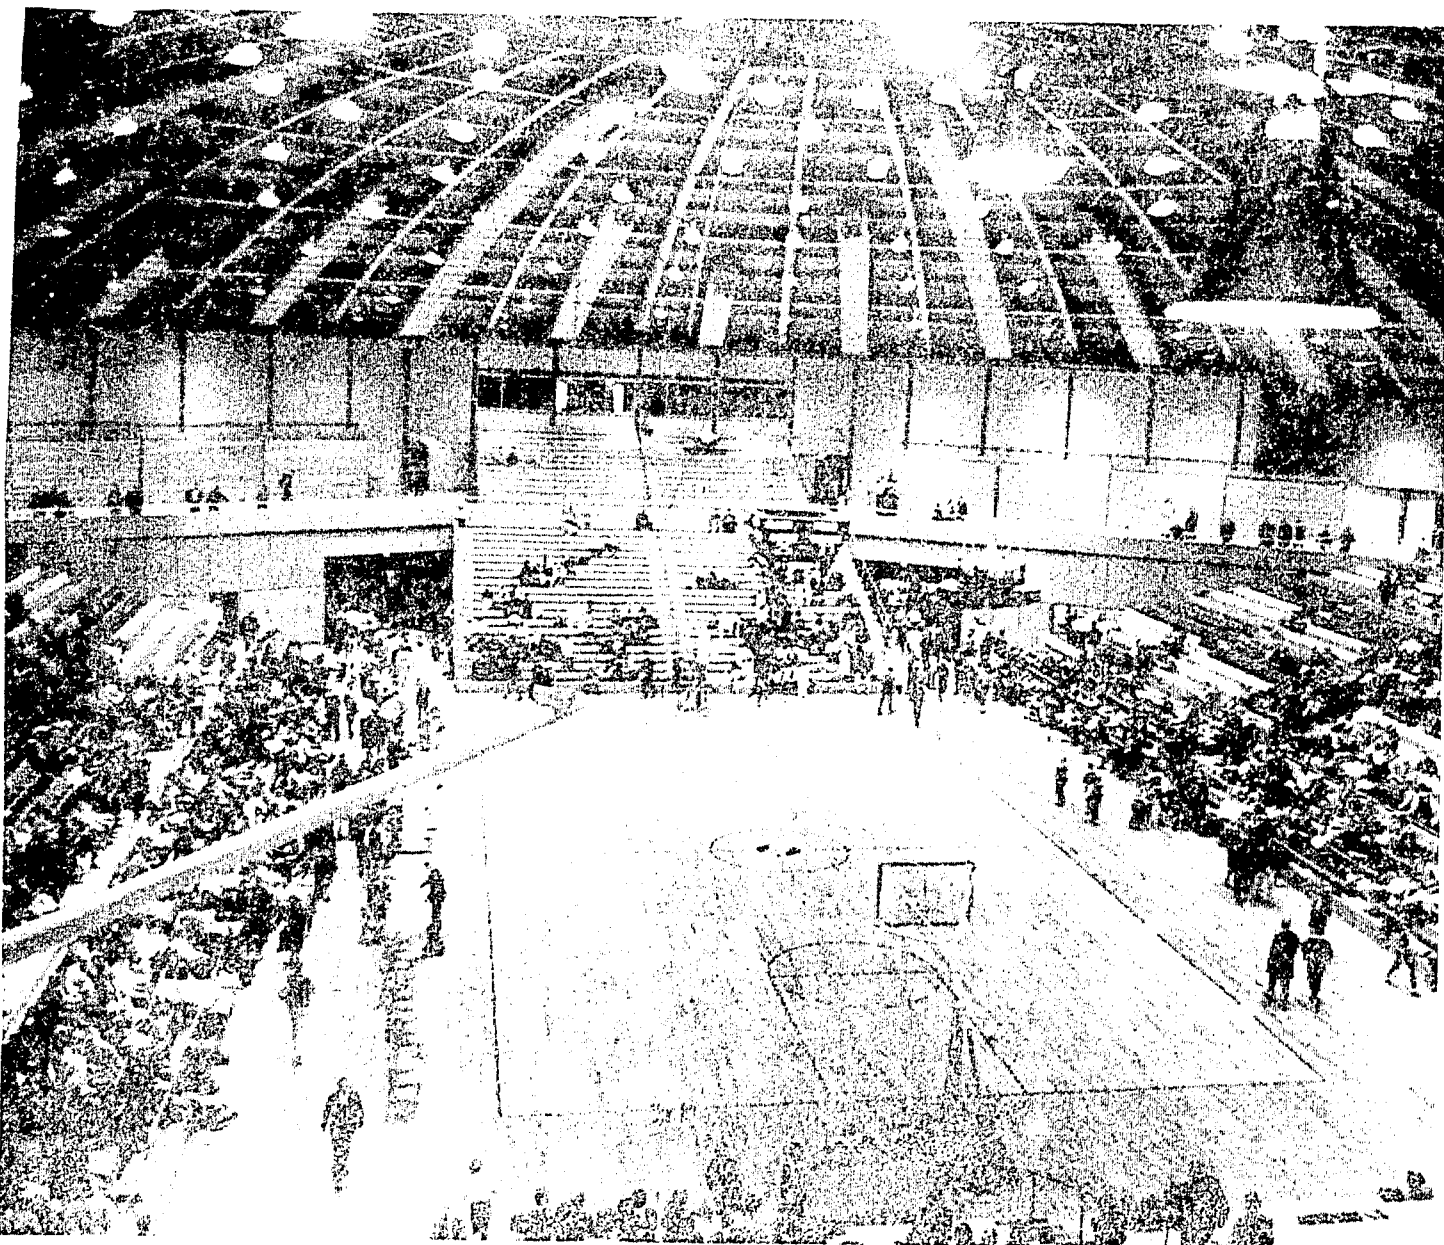

PATIENCE ON THE BENCH — Dennis Sergeant, senior guard for Jacksonville awaits the call from Jones should one of the first five run into trouble. Sergeant was a spark in the fourth period with three crucial baskets.

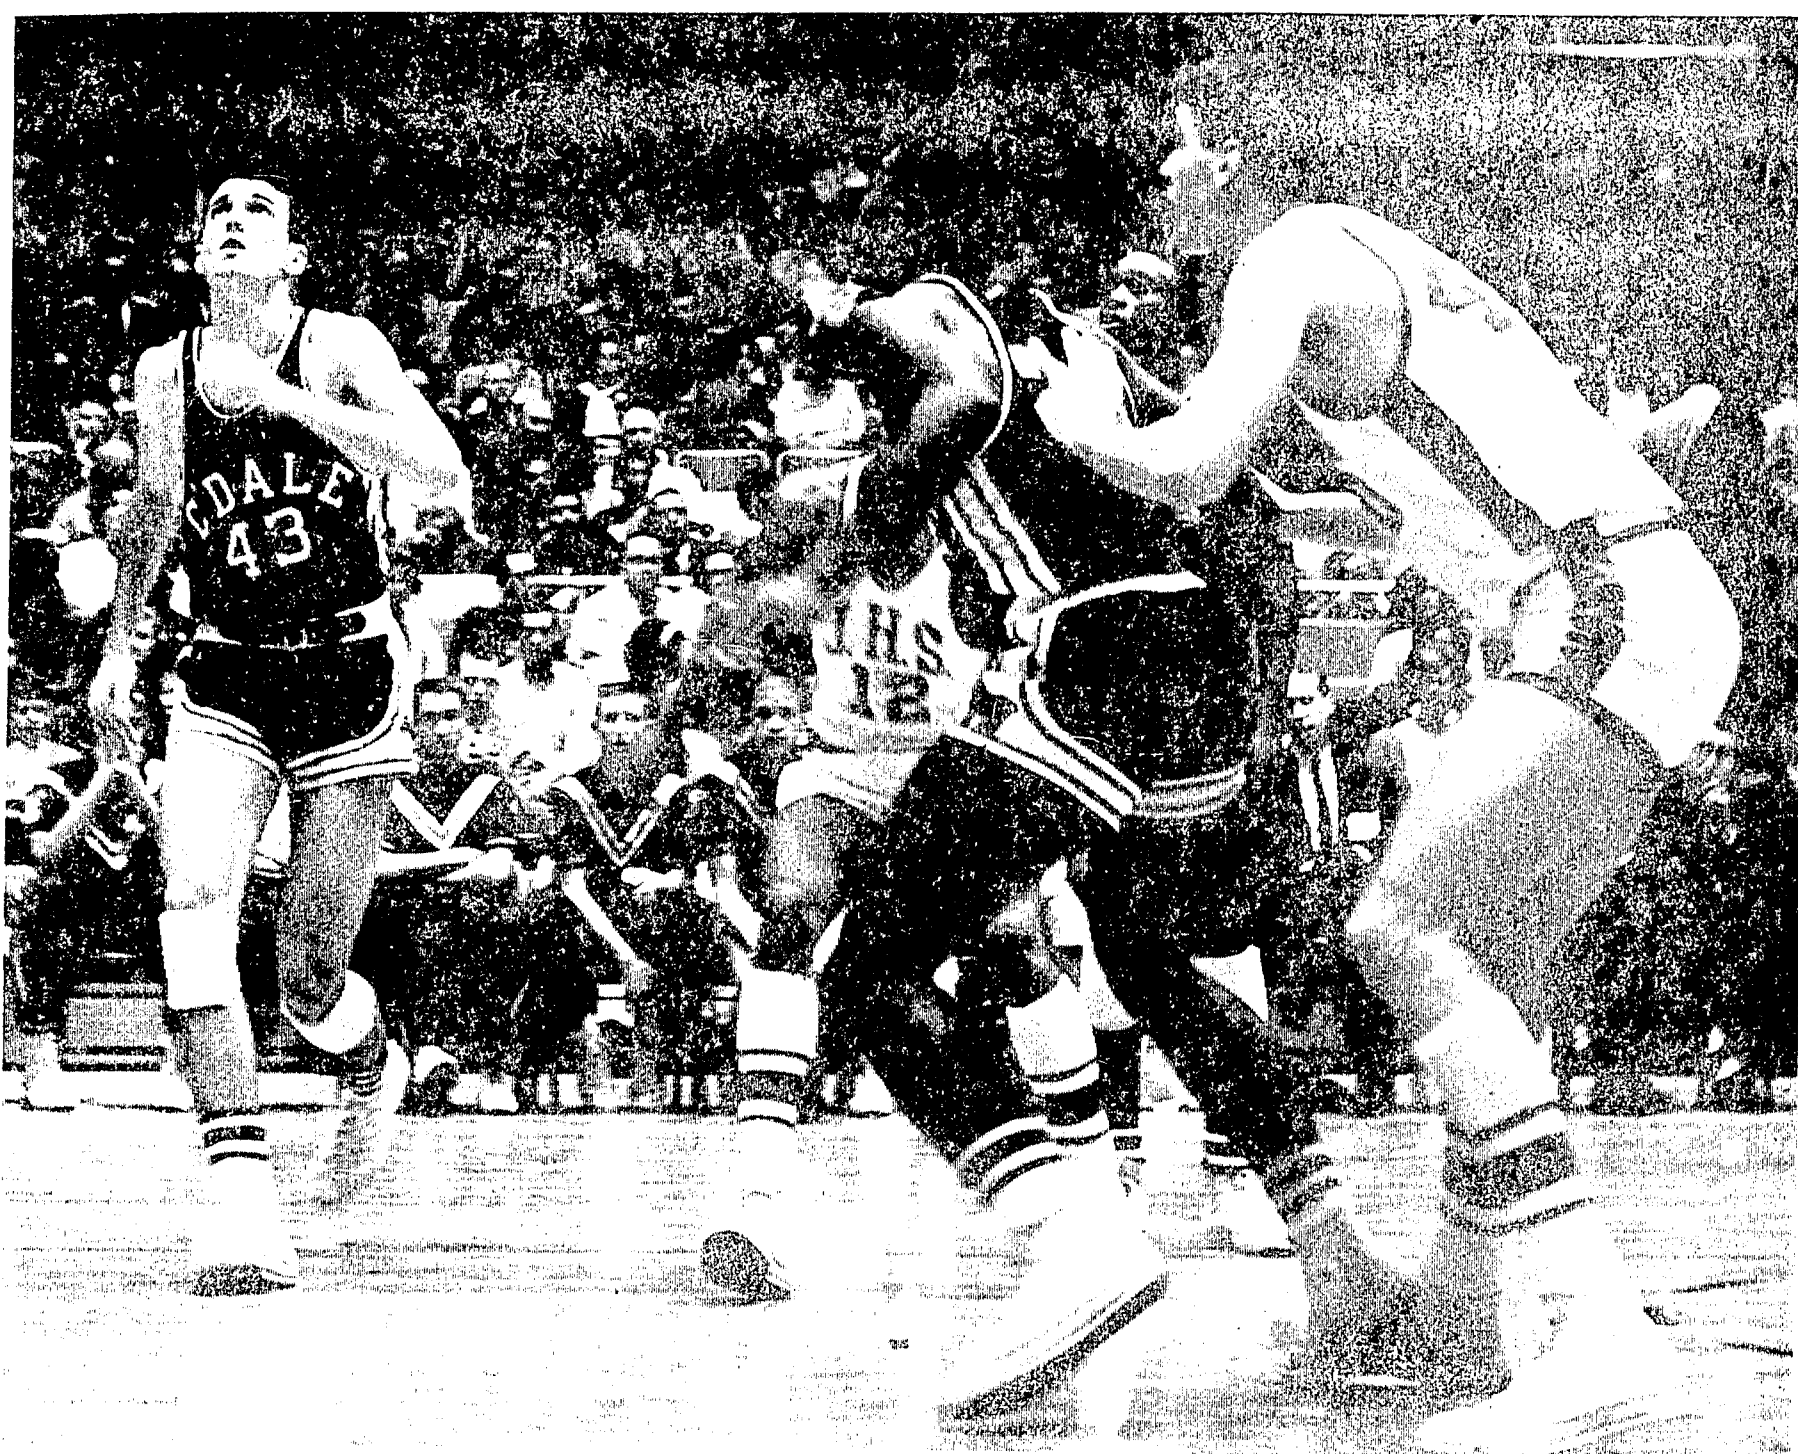

ANOTHER TENSE FACE — Gordon McFarland, assistant coach at JHS, lends his worried look to the Crimson bench as Jacksonville fights off a third quarter surge by the host school Carbondale Community High.

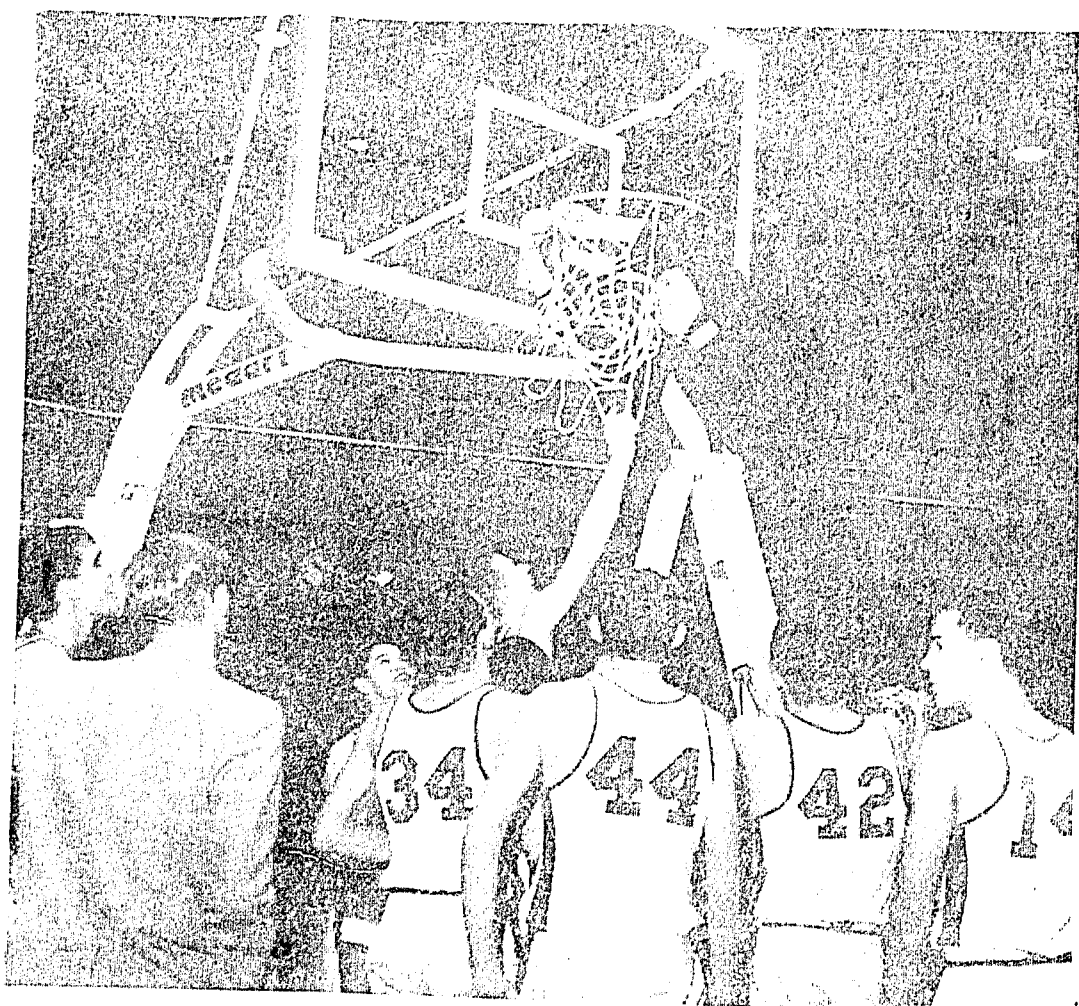

HARD ON THE NAILS — Jacksonville High school basketball coach Richard Jones watches intently from the bench awaiting the outcome of a rebound battle underneath Carbondale's basket.

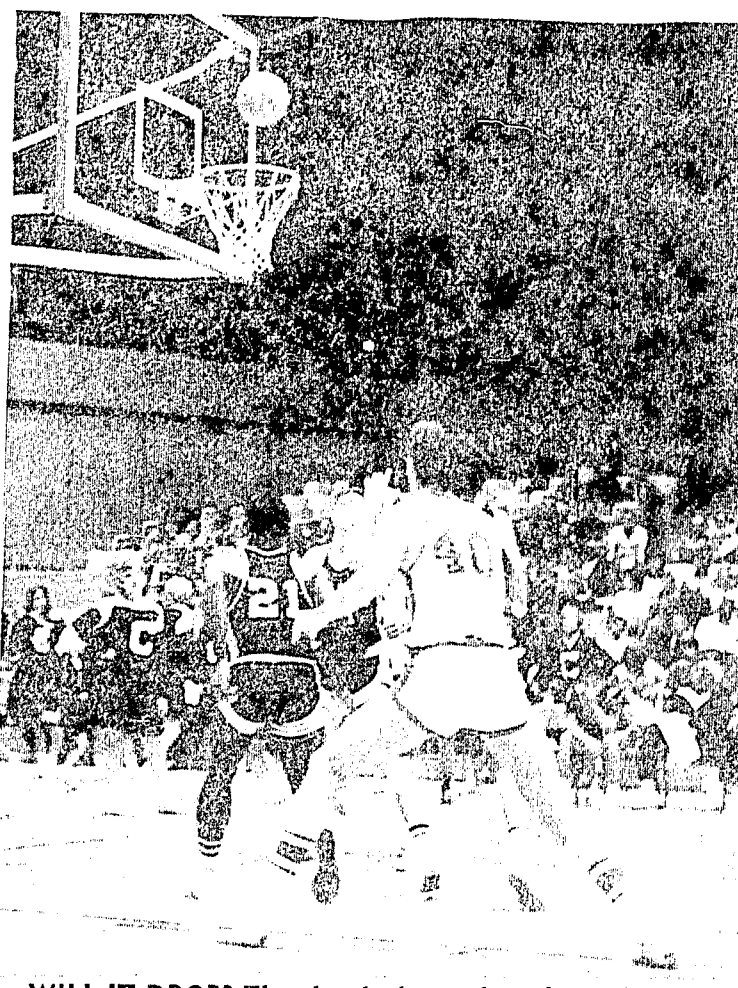

BATTLE SCENE — Southern Illinois University's arena at Carbondale, with seating for 10,000 fans, was the site of the first annual Carbondale Holiday invitational tournament Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Jacksonville High defeated Pinckneyville, Wood River, West Frankfort and Wednesday night thumped Carbondale 69-54 for the championship trophy. For third place Eisenhower (Decatur) defeated West Frankfort 67-56 in the first game of the evening.

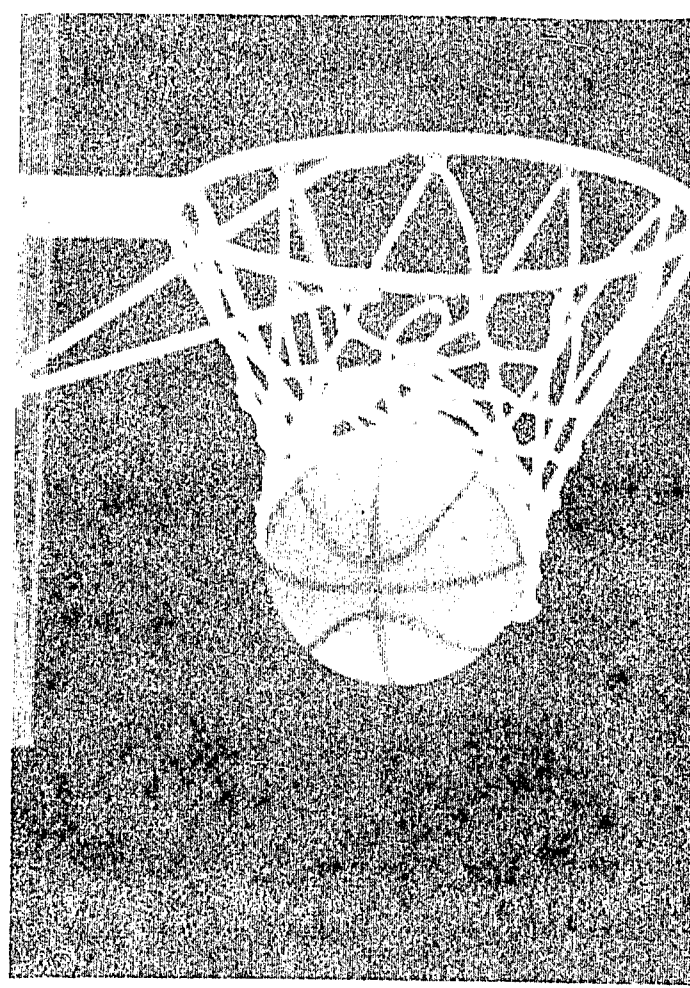

GETTING POSITION — Jacksonville High school senior center Steve Bone (r) gets ready to move underneath in front of Carbondale's Billy Perkins as Lynn Howerton (43) follows the shot.

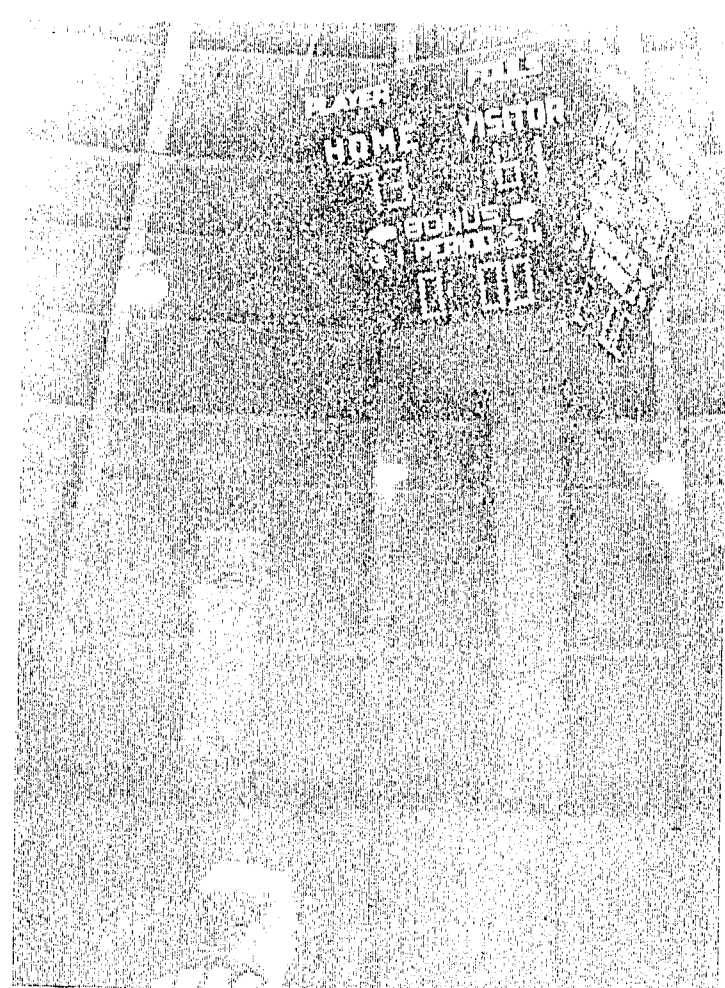

NET RESULT — Jacksonville High school varsity basketball players gather around the backboard in the SIU arena as S/Sgt. Johnny Holder of Jacksonville cleans the rim of the basket. JHS players in the picture are Ron Coleman (34), Gary Ginder (44), Tom Andrews (42) and Steve Tavender (14).

WILL IT DROP? The shot looks as though it is hang in mid-air above the basket as the players in the Jacksonville-Carbondale final game of the Carbondale tournament prepare for the rebound. Players seen are Carbondale's Chuck Gence (33), Donald Wills (21) and Johnny Jordan (11) and Steve Bone (40) of Jacksonville.

ON TARGET — Photographer Charles Bertram of Southern Illinois University caught the ball in its movement through the basket, the phase commonly referred to as "ripping the nets" during the Jacksonville-Carbondale championship game Wednesday night at the SIU arena.

THE STORY IN NUMBERS — High above the SIU arena at Carbondale the 73-61 score is just about the last evidence of the championship game played between Jacksonville and host school Carbondale Wednesday night as the fans and players leave the fieldhouse. The tournament, the first, for the Terriers, started with a 16-team field.
